Japanese Drive On Nanking Is Expected Move Foreseen On China's Capital As More Troops Land

With Mopping-up Starting in Shanghai Chinese Face New Campaign
Transports Bring 40,000 Japanese

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese reinforcements landed on the south and north shores of Hangchow Bay Wednesday for what may become a major drive toward Nanking, China's capital.
Chinese feared the reinforcements would attack Hangchow, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, as the first step in a Nanking drive, now that Shanghai is in Japanese hands except for Nantao, native quarter, in which are remnants of the Chinese army, which retreated from Shanghai Tuesday to defence lines farther inland, and the International Settlement and the French concession.
A few Chinese also were holding out in Pootung, industrial centre across the Whangpoo River from Shanghai.
Japanese utilized airplane and artillery bombardment today in an effort to drive out the remaining Chinese.
Many bombs fell along the Nantao Whangpoo River waterfront, within a few hundred yards of foreign war vessels anchored in the river.

40,000 TROOPS MOVE
Chinese said 34 Japanese transports already had arrived off the Chekiang province coast in the new Hangchow move, carrying approximately 40,000 soldiers. Capture of Hangchow would cut one of the two railroads now open between Shanghai and the capital.
Half of the troops landed in the Chaoou area on the north (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

Ceremony Set For Tomorrow

Remembrance Day Will Be Observed With Service at Cenotaph
Victoria will observe the nineteenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice that ended the Great War tomorrow with full civil and military ceremony.
Arrangements for the Remembrance Day service to be held at the Cenotaph on Parliament Square under the auspices of the Canadian Legion and with detachments of all naval and military units of the Victoria district taking part were announced at a meeting of the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion last night.
At the same time Chief of Police Thomas Heatley asked that all traffic on city streets stop between 11 and 11.02, during the period of the silence.
All the city's stores will be closed tomorrow, it is announced by the retail merchants' section of the Chamber of Commerce.

DETAILS OF SERVICE
Details of the service to be held at the Cenotaph are as follows: King George V, tenor bell of Christ Church Cathedral, will toll at intervals of 20 seconds from 10.45 to 11. The beginning and end of the silence will be marked by the firing of a gun of the Fifth (B.C.) Coast Brigade, Canadian Artillery, on the last stroke of 11 and two minutes later.
After the silence, the traditional lament, "The Flowers of the Forest," will be played by Piper A. Pollock of the band of the First battalion, the Canadian Scottish Regiment.

Move Launched For Work Insurance

B.C. BEHIND KING'S PLAN

Will Concur in Scheme For National Unemployment Insurance

The British Columbia Government today welcomed Prime Minister Mackenzie King's proposals for national unemployment insurance and prepared to assist in having it carried out.
"We will concur," said Premier Pattullo when asked if this province was agreeable to the scheme, which involves an amendment to the British North America Act.
The Premier added that he had always regarded unemployment as a matter of federal responsibility in co-operation with the provinces.
The Premier's view was endorsed by Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, who said he was delighted with the approach Premier King was taking to the problem.
"Regardless of what attempts may be made to meet the unemployment situation generally—for this of course does not immediately solve unemployment—there is only one sound way to deal with men who must be temporarily out of work. That is through unemployment insurance."
"I do not know the details yet so cannot discuss them, or pass final judgment yet. But the word that Ottawa is approaching the problem this way is the best piece of news we have had for a long time."

Federal Government Asks Provinces to Agree to B.N.A. Act Change

OTTAWA (CP)—A call has gone out to the premiers of the nine provinces from Prime Minister King asking approval for an amendment to the British North America Act that would enable passage at the next Parliamentary session of an unemployment insurance act.
It is proposed, according to an announcement by the Prime Minister Tuesday night, that if assent of the provinces is obtained a constitutional amendment will be sought early in the session to empower Parliament to enact a national unemployment insurance measure to be administered by the Dominion Government.
MAY BE CONTRIBUTORY
Labor Minister Norman Rogers today said it "might be fair to assume" the scheme would be on some contributory basis.
He intimated, too, the Dominion Government probably would be prepared to accept responsibility, administrative and financial, for the operation of an insurance plan if the provinces should agree to give the Dominion jurisdiction in this field.

Scottish Burial Will Honor Memory of Ramsay MacDonald

Body of Ex-Premier of Britain to Be Laid to Rest at Lossiemouth

LONDON (CP)—The body of Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald will be taken home from Bermuda to his beloved Lossiemouth and the windswept Moray Firth where, in the tiny cemetery of Spynie Kirk, it will be laid beside that of his wife, Margaret, who, in his own words uttered many years ago, "guided and inspired me at all times."

Mr. MacDonald died Tuesday night of a heart attack on board the liner Reina del Pacifico, at sea. He was bound to South America on a holiday. He was in his 72nd year.
Spynie Cemetery is close to where the River Lossie tumbles past to meet the Firth, of which the former Prime Minister used to say: "That sea and that air! It makes a Scot want to stay there for ever."

The statesmen will be buried among his "ain folk," where he was called Jim and not Ramsay. His daughter, Sheila, who was with her father when he died, witnessed her brother-in-law, Dr. Alastair MacKinnon, that the body would be taken off the ship at Bermuda on Monday and returned to Britain.
Plans have not been formed for a state funeral, but certainly the fishing village of Lossiemouth will see an unusual mingling of Britain's greatest and humblest. Lossiemouth today mourns the great man of the village whose failing health, for his golf was cut to two holes and his walks were greatly shortened.

It was recalled how he was broken up by Philip Snowden's death a few months ago, when he said: "So Philip has gone!"

Mayhew to Speak Friday Evening

R. W. Mayhew, Liberal candidate for Victoria in the federal election November 26, will open his campaign Friday.
Mr. Mayhew will speak at a meeting in Oak Bay Theatre Hall at 8 o'clock and will be supported by several well-known local speakers, among them Alderman W. T. Straith, M.P.P. and Mrs. Nancy Hodges.

W. D. CARTER DIED TODAY

Former Deputy Attorney-General Succumbs

William Doherty Carter, K.C., a former deputy Attorney-General of British Columbia, died at his home in Vancouver today. He was a resident of Victoria from 1921 to 1928.

Two sisters, Mrs. Harry Jakeman of Boston and Mrs. Carl Salander of Seattle, and a brother, Charles, of Portland, Me., are the only survivors.

Born in the New Brunswick village of Buctouche, 74 years ago, Mr. Carter received his early education there, later attending University of New Brunswick and Dalhousie University at Halifax. He was called to the bar of his native province in 1907, after studying law in the office of the late Hon. H. R. Emerson.
His only venture into politics was in 1908, when he was defeated as a Liberal candidate for Kent County, N.B.
Four years later he came to British Columbia and in 1921 was appointed deputy Attorney-General by the then Attorney-General, Hon. J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., now in the Canadian Senate.
In 1928, Mr. Carter became official administrator for Vancouver, a post he held until retiring last year.

CHEST NOW AT $80,000 MARK

Success of Welfare Federation's Drive Amazes Chairmen

Passing well over its $72,500 objective yesterday, the Community Chest continued its drive for 23 welfare organizations in greater Victoria, and by this evening was expected to have a total of over $80,000.

Last night's audit showed a total of $78,924.25, of which $44,595.42 was in actual cash. Altogether, 6,586 people have subscribed so far to the welfare federation, the last official check showed.

"Even we who hoped for the best are amazed at the results," Fred McGregor, joint campaign chairman with H. H. B. Ker, said. "This seems to indicate definitely that the mass of the people are behind the Community Chest idea."

Tribute was paid to the work of the canvassers whose enthusiasm and spirit to a large extent put over the drive. The wonderful organization under Frank Paulding received due credit, and the ability of the two campaign chairmen to enlist personnel was highly praised.

A victory "Dutch treat" dinner to celebrate the chest's triumph is scheduled for next Tuesday evening.

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, Asks Legislature to Vote $27,985,158 for 1938-39 Fiscal Year; Will Restrict Borrowings to Relief Works and Hopes to Pay Direct Relief From Revenue

Main Expenditures Increased Nearly $7,000,000 Since 1933

The 1938-39 British Columbia budget, presented to the Legislature this afternoon by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, showed three main changes in provincial fiscal policy:

- (1) An increase of $659,871 in the main estimates.
- (2) No capital borrowings except for relief works.
- (3) The application of all revenue surpluses toward payment of direct relief.

Confidence Back

who made the budget speech in the Legislature for the twelfth time today. Telling how provincial expenditure had increased $7,000,000 since 1933 to re-establish ordinary services and meet the insistent demand for expansion of social services, he claimed the government, in the five years, without raising taxes, had paid all the ordinary costs of operation, allowed $6,726,153 for debt redemption and was starting to pay a portion of relief costs out of revenue. "Confidence has been restored," he said.

There will be no changes in taxes and the treasury will continue to pass up most of its sinking fund payments. Direct relief borrowings from Ottawa will be held down to the bare minimum for which the province has not the cash and, if revenues continue to mount, may be eliminated altogether. In other words, British Columbia is nearer to a completely balanced budget than it has been since 1930, but still short of paying all expenditure out of revenue.

Mr. Hart budgeted for revenues of $28,065,341 and expenditures, exclusive of relief and sinking funds, of $27,985,158, leaving him a net theoretical revenue surplus of $80,182.

He indicated clearly, however, that he was estimating his revenues conservatively and the revenue surplus probably would be much larger. He summed up the position as follows:

"It is most gratifying to announce that there will be no increase in taxation, and that it is hoped current revenues this year will yield a surplus sufficient to provide, if not all, at least the greater portion of direct relief costs. That capital borrowings will be confined mainly to unemployment relief, and the proceeds of former borrowings will be ample to cover practically all of the other contemplated capital projects."

The Finance Minister frankly outlined the increasing cost of government. The main estimates have risen by nearly $7,000,000 since 1933. For 1938-39 they are $1,516,000 higher than the estimates for 1937-38, but only $659,871 higher than the total parliamentary grant for that year, which includes $965,000 in supplementaries which will be presented this session.

Existing taxes, he explained, are bringing in steadily the highest revenues in provincial history. Following last year's all-time record of $28,102,000, the current year should produce at least $29,000,000, and while he estimated for $28,065,341 next year, this was a conservative figure.

Mr. Hart claimed that in the five fiscal years 1933 to 1938 the treasury had collected sufficient revenue to pay all ordinary costs of government, pay $6,726,153 toward debt redemption and $2,689,022 of the relief bill, and would still have a further balance of $1,712,136 next March 31 to go toward reducing its relief borrowings from Ottawa. The relief borrowings, he pointed out, had been the big factor in an increase in the gross debt of $210,182,809, between November 1, 1933, and October 1, 1937.

Mr. Hart's budget statement covered, in all, three fiscal years. He gave these figures for his ordinary operating account in these periods:

1936-37, (actual) revenue, $28,102,612; expenditure, $25,413,589; revenue surplus, $2,689,022.
1937-38, (latest estimate) revenue, $29,000,000; expenditure, $27,197,240; revenue surplus, $1,802,760.

1938-39, (estimated) revenue, $28,065,341; expenditure, $27,985,158; revenue surplus, $80,182.

In none of these years are sinking fund payments provided, except for $224,052 set up against inscribed stock. All the (Turn to Page 8, Col. 6)

J. H. Unwin, M.P.P., Convicted In Alberta Of Defamatory Libel

Edmonton Jury Finds Social Credit Member Guilty On Pamphlets

EDMONTON (CP)—Joseph H. Unwin, social credit member of the Alberta Legislature for Edmonton, today was convicted by a jury in the Supreme Court of Alberta of publishing a defamatory libel knowing it to be false. He was remanded until Friday for sentence.

In returning its verdict after deliberating one hour, the six-man jury recommended leniency.

Mr. Unwin faced two charges as the result of publication of a pamphlet entitled "Bankers' Toodles" which named Edmonton men. One charge was publishing a defamatory libel, and the second charge was publishing a defamatory libel knowing it to be false.

In his charge to the jury, Mr. Justice L. C. Ives said it was not necessary to convict on both charges.
The jury's verdict found Mr. Unwin guilty of publishing a defamatory libel knowing it to be false. No reference was made by the jury foreman to the other charge.

Mr. Justice Ives continued bail until Mr. Unwin's arraignment for sentence.

VOTE SCANDAL IN NEW YORK

Police Impound 7,500 Ballots in Bronx; Four Arrests

NEW YORK (AP)—This city's first proportional representation election tally was fast developing into a major vote fraud scandal as police today impounded 3,000 more ballots in the Bronx.

The ballots seized brought the total of impounded ballots in the Bronx to 7,500, or approximately 2 per cent of the estimated vote cast there.

The seized ballots allegedly were tampered with by the $10-a-day special canvassers, many of whom have been the target of general charges of dilatoriness and obstructionist tactics to give "P.R." a bad name. Four canvassers already are under arrest.

George H. Steer, K.C., private prosecutor in the case, addressed the jury first, R. Frederick Jackson, counsel for Mr. Unwin, then addressed the jury.

Raising the question of whether contents of the pamphlet were libellous, Mr. Jackson pointed out Senator Griesbach was the only one who complained, yet nine were named in the pamphlet.

the government was confident Chinese forces now being rushed to Yuyao would be able to check the new Japanese reinforcements.

Shanghai harbor, off the French Concession, Wednesday night was the scene of a bitter machine-gun battle between Japanese war craft and Chinese troops on both banks of the Whangpoo.

At nightfall three Japanese vessels joined the efforts of their land forces to expel the Chinese from Nantao.

FRENCH MARINES LAND

A detachment of marines landed from the French cruiser Lamotte Picquet, to strengthen French forces manning the borders of the concession. French troops cleared streets in the southern section of the concession, driving the populace northward from the danger zone.

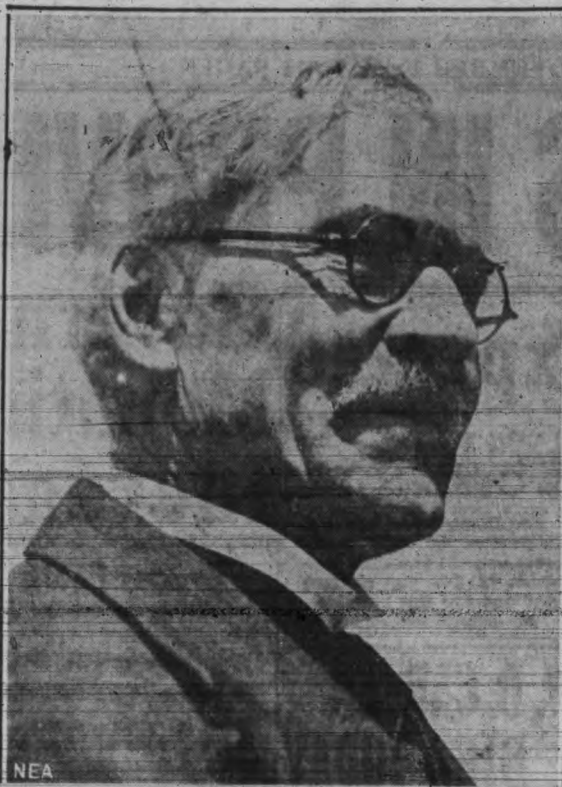

Chinese soldiers near the French Concession border indicated they had no intention of withdrawing. Before the aerial bombardment they had withdrawn an attack by Japanese shock troops and declared they would resist until death.

Planes ranging west of Shanghai bombarded the air-raid area of Nanking, the capital. Some Nanking residents said they feared a resumption of extended raids which had been interrupted recently by Japanese intensification of the Shanghai campaign.

Chinese officials at Nanking apparently were resigned to a gradual withdrawal of Chinese troops from the Shanghai region to main line defences inland. They saw a possibility of temporary lull in hostilities, however, explaining Japanese probably would be busy consolidating their gains and establishing some sort of puppet regime at Shanghai.

Outside the Shanghai zone, Japanese asserted they had captured Sungkiang, 20 miles south of the city, and were marching

Served Britain Many Years

LATE RT. HON. J. RAMSAY MACDONALD

on Isingpu, General Chang Fah-kwei's field headquarters—20 miles west of the French Concession.

King and Queen Send Sympathy

LONDON (CP)—The King and Queen were understood today to have sent a message of sympathy to Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, Secretary of State for the Dominions, who returned from the Nine-power Treaty Conference at Brussels by air on learning of the death of his father, Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald.

Throughout the day visitors arrived at the MacDonald home at Hampstead, one of the earliest being Lady Grant, the widow of Sir Alexander Grant, the statesman's lifelong friend who recently left him sufficient money in trust to take care of his old age.

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George paid tribute to the former Prime Minister, declaring: "While obviously his vigor was exhausted and his health broken up, news of his death comes as a great shock. No one could have attained so exalted a position without possessing some notable gifts. He held a conspicuous place in the public eye for a quarter-century, for he had the gift of personality."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader in the House of Commons, said: "The Commons has lost a distinguished figure, the state a man who shrank from no sacrifice in public duty, and Scotland a devoted son who proved himself in bitter political controversy to be a man of proud, indomitable courage."

In Australia, Prime Minister Joseph Lyons paid tribute to his outstanding services to the United Kingdom, particularly his 1931 accomplishments.

The Western Mail of Cardiff, Independent, said: "It was MacDonald's misfortune, incurred through an imperative sense of duty and motives of the purest patriotism, to suffer the most implacable hostility from his former friends. The British people will never fail to appreciate the example of one who, almost more than any other, made possible the happy turn in the nation's fortunes."

The Manchester Guardian, Liberal, in an editorial, said that "for all his high successes, Mr. MacDonald's life ended in tragedy. As the memoirs come to be written, something of the glamour may be stripped off and the idiosyncrasies of his complex character may be more obvious than they appear to the admiring public, but he will be recognized as having many qualities of greatness."

"In the latter years most of us remember him only as a politician who, for reasons that seemed to him sufficient, changed his party and (as he confessed) became the 'prisoner of the Tories,' and from him all his early faith seemed to slip away."

SCOTTISH BURIAL WILL HONOR MEMORY OF RAMSAY MACDONALD

I'll be the next of the old-timers to get the call. I'm weary," Lord Snowden, the financial genius of the Labor movement, was MacDonald's collaborator through the long years of his rise to power.

FAMILY GRIEVES

Miss Isabel MacDonald, her father's hostess at 10 Downing Street throughout his three administrations, in the small, quietly furnished study in the MacDonald home at Hampstead, today told how all members of the family had been informed of his death, and added:

"We have lost the most loving and understanding of fathers. Though so strong in purpose, he always urged us to follow our own."

To that family tribute the House of Commons this afternoon added the tribute of legislators who saw him throw down personal popularity in the Labor Party for what he deemed to be the nation's good and align himself with the Conservatives in a concerted effort to restore prosperity. The speeches indicated clearly that he might have made political enemies but nothing but personal friends.

VILLAGER'S TRIBUTE

W. Cromack bespoke Lottie, mouth's grief. He is a ship's chandler there and declared simply: "I am sorry to hear that. I knew Jim very well. Everybody here knew him very well and had great love for him and he always knew that here he had his best friends."

The statesman used to spend his holidays at "The Hillock," a stone-built house which was bought for his mother, who died there in 1911. Today the house was shut up and deserted, but during the summer vacation and Christmas festivities he and his family always gathered at the warming, familiar hearthstone. Here he used to wear old tweeds and old hats.

Seaham Harbor in Durham County, too, felt an intimate share in the nation's loss. He represented the miners' town in Parliament during his second premiership. Dr. W. Grant, his host there, declared "he was a wonderful man and undoubtedly sacrificed his health by continuing his work and responsibility so long."

PEACEFUL DEATH

Death came peacefully while he was on his way to South America to seek, in his own words, "the most elusive of all forms of happiness—rest."

Troubled with a serious eye condition and tired from the long strain of office, Mr. MacDonald resigned the Prime Ministership in June, 1935. This year, in company with his successor as Prime Minister, Earl Baldwin, he withdrew from the cabinet.

Physicians advised a lengthy rest. He sailed for South America last Thursday with his daughter, Sheila.

When news of his death came

The House will not sit tomorrow.

The session resumes next Tuesday.

Yesterday's speakers were Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary; Capt. Macgregor Macintosh, Conservative, The Islands; Capt. C. S. Leary, Liberal, Kaslo-Slocan.

Members of the House will get a three-day rest for the remainder of this week and will then go over to New Westminster Monday to witness the opening ceremonies of the Pattullo Bridge. The budget debate will commence next Tuesday.

Legislation is starting to accumulate on the order paper but not nearly at the rate of recent sessions. Five private bills were reported in order by the private bills committee yesterday and the government has introduced 10 bills.

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, brought in two measures which will have the effect of deferring diking charges this year on farmers in the Sumas, Dewdney and Nicomen districts. This has been done from year to year since the depression.

Conservatives today began a broadside of questions about the new Fraser River Bridge. In answers today Hon. F. M. MacPherson said 209 parcels of land were acquired for the right of his elder son, Malcolm, Secretary of State for the Dominions, was in Brussels as a member of the British delegation to the Nine-Power Conference. His other son, Alastair, was in the north of England. Isabel MacDonald, his companion on many of his ramblings throughout the world, was at home.

COLOURFUL LIFE

Mr. MacDonald's old friend, Sir Alexander Grant, recently bequeathed him sufficient funds to make his declining years secure and he had made tentative plans to write his memoirs from the days when he was a dishevelled young orator calling for government ownership on a soapbox platform in Hyde Park.

They would have included the story of his break with the Labor Party in 1914 when he refused to support the Great War and was succeeded as parliamentary leader by Arthur Henderson; his return to the leadership after the war and the historic day in 1924 when King George V entrusted him with the mission of forming the first Labor government in the history of the United Kingdom.

"Ramsay Mac" met sorrow and difficulties.

In 1911, within a few months, he lost his wife, his son, David, and his mother. Care of five children devolved on him.

WAS CALLED TRAITOR

Then came the Great War. He bitterly attacked the government of the day for entering the war, and was equally bitterly attacked himself.

In his native Lissiemouth members of the Moray Golf Club voted to banish him. His neighbors splashed the word "traitor" in paint across the walls of his home, though at the time his son, Alastair, was at the front with the ambulance corps.

The Seamen's Union refused to let him sail to Stockholm to attend a meeting of Socialist representatives of enemy countries with a view to outlining terms of truce. Some of his meetings were broken up in near riots. He lost his seat in the Commons. In 1922 he came back to head the Labor Party.

Mr. MacDonald's first term as Prime Minister extended from January to November, 1924.

He again became Labor Prime Minister in 1929. In 1931, at a time of great economic stress, he formed the first National Government, composed of a few of his Labor associates, Conservatives and some Liberals, which he headed until 1935. He was succeeded by Mr. Baldwin, being given the post of Lord President of the Council.

Mr. MacDonald was born in October 12, 1866, in a two-room thatched-roof house in the little Scottish fishing village of Lissiemouth. At the age of 12 he had to quit school to earn his living in the fields.

As an adolescent his first job was addressing envelopes.

He made his first race for Parliament in 1895 in Southampton, but received only 897 votes. His second stand was in 1900 after his active opposition to the South African War. He was beaten way but referred his questioners to the public accounts for the costs.

Members who were expecting they might get a restoration in their indemnities this year have given up hope. Several of the Opposition have privately expressed disagreement with the plan and it was thought unlikely the government would go ahead with it and let the Opposition make political capital out of it.

The railways committee of the Legislature met this morning for organization under the chairmanship of C. H. Tupper, Liberal, Similkameen. Glen Braden, Liberal, Peace River, was elected secretary.

British Columbia was becoming a convalescent hospital for the prairie provinces, Dr. G. M. Weir, provincial secretary, said in the House yesterday, when speaking on health matters during the course of his 50-minute address.

Only five of the 19 new members in the Legislature did not speak in the debate in reply to the Speech from the Throne. Dr. F. P. Patterson, leader of the opposition, was to have opened the Conservative remarks, but was taken ill. The only other new members who did not speak were Liberals, Glen Braden of Peace River, Harry Johnston of Revelstoke, Louis LeBourdais of Cariboo and J. M. Bryan of Kamloops.

badly again. It took him 11 years to get into Parliament, the constituency of Leicester finally electing him in 1906.

HIS MARRIAGE

In 1895, during his first campaign, Mr. MacDonald received a campaign contribution from "M. E. Gladstone."

He discovered this was Margaret Ethel Gladstone, daughter of the late scientist, Dr. J. H. Gladstone. They were married the same year.

In 1924 his first Labor government, formed with Liberal support, fell when Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George withdrew his support after publication of an alleged letter by Gregory Zinovieff, Russian foreign commissar, advocating forming Communist factions in British military forces.

After he returned to the Premiership in 1929, he went to Washington, where he and President Hoover laid the foundations for the 1930 London Naval Conference.

He restored diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and withdrew British troops from the Rhineland. He presided at the London Naval Conference and the first round table conference on India.

Last year Mr. MacDonald gave a host of pleasant impressions of Canada in his book of essays "At Home and Abroad."

"This is indeed an annex of Scotland," he wrote of Nova Scotia. "The people I met there were ready to discuss theology by the hour, as the church spires attest."

CEREMONY SET FOR TOMORROW

A short religious service with the hymns, "O Valiant Hearts" and "The Silent Tribute," and a prayer by Rev. G. R. V. Bolster, late of the Dublin Fusiliers and the Royal Air Force, will follow the lament.

Last Post and the artillery Reveille will be sounded by trumpeters of the Fifth Brigade, after which the assembly will sing O Canada and God Save the King.

After the ceremony Lieutenant-Governor Eric W. Hamper will lay a wreath at the foot of the Cenotaph, followed by a representative of the bereaved mothers, the Bishop of Columbia, the Bishop of Victoria, Premier T. D. Pattullo, Mayor Andrew McGavin, the senior naval officer, Royal Canadian Navy, the district officer commanding Military District No. 11, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Percy Lake, grand president of the Canadian Legion, and representatives of units of the non-permanent active militia and the ex-servicemen's organizations.

TROOPS MARCH PAST

After the laying of the wreaths the veterans' organizations and the naval military units will march past His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who will take the salute from a saluting base on the Causeway in front of the Empress Hotel.

Following the march past, all those who wish may lay wreaths at the foot of the Cenotaph.

Music for the march past will be provided by the band of the Fifth Brigade, and for the religious service by the band of the Canadian Legion.

Members of the Canadian Pensioners' Association and of Spencer's Remnants will parade with the Canadian Legion and other ex-servicemen on Humboldt Street between Government and Douglas at 10.15. Sir Percy Lake and Brigadier-General J. G. Austin, C.M.G., will lead the veterans' detachment.

ESQUIMAULT SERVICE

At the same time as the Parliament Square service, Esquimalt will honor its war dead with a ceremony in the Memorial Park, Esquimalt Road. The municipal service will be attended by a detachment of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Permanent Force. The Esquimalt Salvation Army Band will provide the music for the hymn "Abide With Me," and for the national anthem. A bugler will sound last post before the silence and reveille at its end.

MACDONALD WAS VICTORIA VISITOR

Approximately 30 years ago Ramsay MacDonald, then one of the most eloquent champions of a comparatively young Labor Party movement that had not attained the full strength of its later power, paid his first visit to Victoria.

He came again in 1928, the leading figure in Empire statesmanship, and one of the most important voices in world affairs. On his second visit he spoke at a Canadian Club gathering along with his daughter, Isabel.

Other members of the famous family also stayed shortly in this city. Malcolm MacDonald, his son, who came first as a member of a touring British debating team, later returned as a parliamentarian in his own right.

The youngest daughter, Sheila, passed through the city most recently, on her way home from Australia, approximately two years ago.

PARIS FAIR IN 1938

PARIS (AP)—The cabinet Tuesday decided to continue the Paris International Exposition through 1938. A bill appropriating 400,000,000 francs (about $13,480,000) to finance the renewal of the exposition was among measures drafted by the cabinet for submission to parliament when it convenes November 16.

Commissioner and Mrs. Carpenter Greeted at Meeting in Citadel

It's two bands playing and it's songsters' brigade singing, the Salvation Army welcomed its territorial commander, Commissioner George Carpenter, and his wife, Mrs. Carpenter, at an enthusiastic rally in the Citadel on Broad Street yesterday evening.

Representatives of the government and the church were on hand to greet the new army head, who was accompanied by Commissioner David Lamb, international representative from London, England.

Alderman Stan Okell brought the good wishes of the mayor and City Council. He spoke of the work of the Salvation Army during the Great War in encouraging soldiers to write home.

At this time of Remembrance, he said, the only way to peace was to answer the call of the Prince of Peace, and the Army was giving His call in 100 languages.

Rev. G. A. Reynolds spoke for the ministerial association of Victoria. He said that his first religious awakening was when he heard a Salvation Army woman speak in London, England.

"We admire you for the work you do which we cannot do," he said. "You reach people we cannot reach."

Commissioner Carpenter said that he was conscious of God's call in his life. He told of how he heard the call 46 years ago. He described himself as a son without promise of poor but honorable working people with no thought of religion.

On May 10, 1891, he heard the pastor at the little church he attended say that it was possible there were some who were relying on others praying for them to make things somehow work out right for them.

"That sermon seemed to be preached straight at me," the commissioner said. "Till then I could not make up my mind there

Weir Says Health Insurance Coming

In Legislature, Father of Scheme Says Mandate of People Will Prevail

Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education and Provincial Secretary, in the Legislature yesterday answered for the government the criticisms of opposition members, as the debate in reply to the Speech from the Throne was wound up. He was the only member of the Cabinet to speak in the debate.

Dr. Weir spoke at some length on health insurance and said it was his opinion the people of the province were becoming more and more in favor of it, that splendid ground work was being done by members of the commission and that some day state medicine would be in operation in British Columbia.

"There is nothing politically sacrilegious or communistic about state medicine," he said. "Fully one half of the people of this province are not receiving adequate health and medical services."

Dr. Weir said no friend of British Columbia would make political capital out of the health needs of the people. Only dangerous demagogues and political buccaners would stoop to such practices.

PREPARING FACTS

The present commission, he said, was working on certain desirable activities which, had the act been operative, would have been postponed. Its members were developing in some detail plans for hospitalization insurance. They were studying fee schedules, medical problems in rural areas. Sooner or later, the minister said, the question of including dental benefits under health insurance must be set. The commission was studying this question.

"I regret as much as any person in this province the delay in starting health insurance," he said. "While I am disappointed, I am not discouraged. In the time at our disposal since the election it has not been found possible to reach an agreement regarding changes in the Health Bill that might be made. Health insurance, however, will be working in due course. The mandate of the people must ultimately prevail."

The costs of British Columbia's health services were bound to rise unless greater stress was was no religion, so I was relying on others praying for me." He thanked all for the friendliness with which he had been received.

In closing, Commissioner Carpenter reminded the Salvationist of what their founder, William Booth, had written beside his name when he autographed Queen Alexandra's album: "Saved to save."

Commissioner Lamb said that he had thought that the County of Angus in Scotland, where he had been born, was the centre of the world, but now he wondered if Victoria were not, standing as it did at the gateway to the Orient, to the continent of America and to the north.

Mrs. Carpenter also spoke. Brigadier William Dray of Montreal read the scripture while Brigadier Matt Junker conducted the meeting. Brigadier Owen Culshaw of London, England, and Mrs. Adjutant Martin rendered solos, while the Victoria Songsters' Brigade gave a chorus. The Esquimalt and Victoria bands played during the evening.

needs of life in British Columbia today.

It sought to place stress on social studies, vocational and educational guidance, on the formation of character, the use of the library, on art, music, household science, manual and practical art, and on physical and recreational education.

"During this period of economic stress and strain the Department of Education has done its utmost to rescue our youth, if not from the economic depression, at least from mental and spiritual depression, which is even worse," the minister said. "The work in this field has just begun. Within recent years more adequate foundations have been laid, and in the near future it is hoped that a more satisfactory superstructure will be erected."

The cost of health and welfare services to the people of the province, by 1947, he said, would exceed $7,000,000 a year. At the present time the cost of health services for the province was $15,000,000, and only about $1 out of every $30 went for preventive medicine.

Returning to state medicine, he said he believed it could be instituted for not one dollar more than the people of British Columbia were now paying for health services, and that he was 100 per cent for it.

MODERN EDUCATION

The most significant development in education in the last year, Dr. Weir said, was the new curriculum. He said it was a milestone in the educational history of the province. It aimed to be more practical and to assist in adjusting the pupils to the

Dominion Asks Supreme Court About Lieutenant-Governors' Powers

OTTAWA (CP)—Power of a Lieutenant-Governor to reserve for the signification of the pleasure of the Governor-General bills passed by a provincial Legislature, as provided by section 90 of the British North American Act, will be tested in the Supreme Court of Canada.

Complying with a request from Premier Aberhart of Alberta that this further question be added to a reference already made to the Supreme Court on the power of disallowance itself, an order-in-council was passed Tuesday and made public by Prime Minister King.

Three measures passed by the Alberta Legislature in October were presented to Lieutenant-Governor Bowen for assent October 5. The Lieutenant-Governor did not give assent, but reserved the bills for signification of the pleasure of the Governor-General. This left to the Governor-General the task of deciding and saying whether the bills would become law.

Unless that signification of pleasure is given within a year from the day the bills were pre-

THREE BILLS

The three bills in question, providing for increased bank taxes, licensing and regulation of credit institutions and a measure of control over newspapers, have been referred to the Supreme Court to determine whether they are within the competency of the Legislature. Meanwhile assent is reserved.

Mr. Aberhart, acknowledging advice from the Prime Minister of the court references, urged that this power of reservation also be tested. To meet the request the government has added to the earlier reference.

Remembrance Day

NINETEEN YEARS WILL HAVE elapsed tomorrow since the guns boomed at the end of the most brutal, futile and costly war the world had ever known. November 11 ever since then has been suitably observed in a spirit of thankfulness in many parts of the world. It is a day on which special tribute is paid to the memory of those brave men who laid down their lives in the fervent hope that never again would such human sacrifices have to be made. The war to end war had been fought and won. Henceforward, international disputes would be settled without recourse to the sword. This was the bright prospect which cheered the peoples of the world nineteen years ago tomorrow. What are we to say about it today?

True, a valiant effort has been made to avoid war in the meantime; the peoples of the world have consistently demanded that the machinery of peace be kept continuously in motion; but the governments of the world, save in a few instances, have failed. In recent years frank dealing between nation and nation—promised as a substitute for the crafty diplomacy of the old days—has been the exception rather than the rule. There is no need to recapitulate the detailed evidence of the great betrayal. The culprits—passive and active—are known. Their diabolical machinations mock the sacrifice of 1914-1918.

Bitter as the cup is which must tomorrow brush the lips of those who have kept faith—those millions who have yet to find the antidote to international chicanery and greed—there is yet hope that sanity will prevail, that a civilization hovering on the brink of disaster will survive. At 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, therefore, Canada will dedicate herself anew to the cause of peace, remembering that more than 60,000 valiant sons of the Maple Leaf gave their all in a cause they believed to be right.

Economic Report

DISTURBING AS MAY BE SURFACE implications of the setback in the stock markets, there is no reason to look for anything in the nature of a severe depression generally across the continent, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Washington, which has been "remarkably accurate" in its previous predictions.

Although the slump may run "well into 1938," with easing of industrial production, wholesale prices and national incomes, the current trend is seen as one of the "relatively short recessions" that usually characterize a general upswing of business cycles. Factors generally associated with the end of a prosperity period and the beginning of a depression are absent.

Favorable factors to be borne in mind include: "Business debts are low, credit is cheap and plentiful, banking resources are not strained, there is no building boom and there has been an absence of violent speculation of the type which frequently precedes the end of a business boom."

Blaming The Women

DISCUSSING THE ENFRANCHISEMENT of women, the morning paper says it is a moot point as to what contribution the fair sex have made to the sum of human betterment "in having won forward to the extent they have on the road to their emancipation." It actually contends that their use of the vote "has left the political situation perhaps more confused than ever."

We are at a loss to understand just what The Colonist means by this implied charge against the feminine voters. How would it describe the situation which it argues is now "perhaps more confused than ever?" And where is this confusion? The people of this province last June endorsed a government headed by Mr. Pattullo in a manner emphatic enough to satisfy the most captious critic. Two years ago the people of Canada as a whole presented Mr. Mackenzie King with a following comprising four-fifths of the membership of the House of Commons. Any confusion of the political situation here, accountable to the votes of the women? The governments of the provinces of Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Ontario and Saskatchewan, all overwhelmingly Liberal, are far from being plagued with confusion.

Can it be that The Colonist thinks the political situation can be free of confusion only when Conservative governments are in office? Meanwhile, of course, the women voters of Victoria cannot be expected to feel flattered when they are told, in effect, that every time they mark a ballot they confuse the political situation. Let them remember the Conservative newspaper's chastisement on November 29.

Not Even a Sandwich!

SAID MR. BRUHN IN THE LEGISLATURE: "I have no use for our present system of beer parlors. I know of no other country in the world where people just sit down and swill beer. You can't even get a sandwich in a beer parlor. A woman can't even get a soft drink. You are trying to get people to drink as much as possible."

Ramsay MacDonald

THERE WILL BE MANY SAD HEARTS today in that little fishing village of Lossiemouth on the Moray Firth where James Ramsay MacDonald first saw the light of day 71 years ago. He passed away suddenly on his way to South America whither he had set out in search of health.

When just a mere lad in board school MacDonald began to dream his dreams of a new social structure. Before he was 20 he was earning $3 a week as a clerk in London, continuing his education at evening classes, laboratory work, and incessant reading. The door of the scientific realm was closed to him by a breakdown in health; he gravitated to journalism. His early experience of life and much burning of the midnight oil in his search for knowledge made him a convinced Socialist. In 1895, as a member of Keir Hardie's Independent Labor Party, he unsuccessfully contested Southampton as a candidate for the House of Commons, but a few years later he was elected in Leicester. Labor had then got its start as a force in British politics—with 296 representatives in Parliament after the 1906 general election which killed tariff reform proposals—subjected its gospel to intensive development, and, in 1924, the man who has just passed to the Great Beyond was called upon by King George V to form the first Labor government. Short-lived though it was, because the Ministry was compelled to rely upon the support of the Liberal Party, the few months in which it was in office gave it the opportunity to prove to the public it had nothing to fear from government by Labor.

Ramsay MacDonald in office, of course, was hardly the Ramsay MacDonald of the days when Labor had begun to discard its swaddling clothes. He had mellowed somewhat; but he was still the hater-of-war and bloodshed which gave him the courage to denounce British policy in 1914. In the war years he was called the vilest of names as the best-hated man in Britain. One popular weekly rechristened him Ramsay von MacDonaldbächer—and the late Viscount Snowden, who shared his views, Philip von Snowdenstein. Yet the whirligig of time destined MacDonald to end his parliamentary career, first as Prime Minister for the second time, and then later as a colleague in an overwhelmingly Tory ministry.

Whatever the historian may have to say about James Ramsay MacDonald he will have nothing but praise for his sincerity of purpose and his high ideals, and that his early studies and training gave him an elasticity of outlook which determined his own conception of moral responsibility.

On World Peace

PROFESSOR L. A. MANDER, WHO will be Victoria's "Peace Week" speaker, is an Australian by birth. He has been for several years Professor of Economics and Political Science at the University of Washington. He has made a careful study of international affairs and was a leader at the recent conference at Shawmigan Lake.

In his address on Friday evening under the chairmanship of Prof. E. S. Farr of Victoria College at the Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Mander is expected to consider in detail the reasons underlying the more conspicuous failures of the League of Nations, and the changes which condition the eventual achievement by the world of international security.

At a moment when the nations are being more and more entangled in one another's animosities, such a calm survey of the scene is peculiarly appropriate.

Notes

Japan has one ace card. If she finds she cannot ultimately beat China, she can ask the other Powers to stop her.

Co-eds in the east have taken up wearing brass-studded dog collars as the latest campus fad. The dog house will remain exclusively for the men.

Now that Rheims cathedral has been restored and Germany has signed a new treaty guaranteeing Belgium's neutrality, Europe is right back where it was in 1914—except, for the 8,000,000 who were killed and the billions in money lost in the Great War.

SHANGHAI

From The Ottawa Journal

Shanghai is by far the most important city of China, and by far the greatest seat of Chinese trade. Capture of Shanghai is tremendously important to the Japanese. Hence the vigor of the Japanese attack.

But the greater part of the area of Shanghai, and the most of the population of Shanghai, are included in two areas; one, the largest, known as the International Settlement, shared in by Britain and the United States, and the other and adjoining area known as the French Settlement. Now, it is, of course, distressing and cruel that there should be bloody attack upon a great city. But that is war. That the lives of British soldiers, even though but a very few, should be taken in such attack causes, of course, in British minds, a feeling of angry irritation.

But this is to be remembered, that the British and French and Americans are in Shanghai with no better excuse than the Japanese have for attacking Shanghai. The conditions under which the International Settlement arrangement in Shanghai was eventually forced upon the Chinese by Great Britain began in a war in 1839, known as the Opium War. And it was an unjust war, waged as wrongly by Great Britain as the present war is waged by Japan.

Further wars followed in which France participated with Great Britain against China.

Great Britain, therefore, needs to be patient with what is happening at Shanghai, so far as the Japanese are concerned.

FRESHMAN CLASS

THIS HOUSE always feels like a freshman class in English literature, science and economics, all combined in a single exquisite orgy of learning, when Dr. Weir takes it in hand.

Dr. Weir took it in hand Wednesday and the House, like the yokelry in Goldsmith's ancient rhyme, gazed and gazed, and still the wonder grew that one small head could carry all he knew. But even if it was overwhelmed and a little dazed by the doctor's hurricane of learning which blew with varying force for a good hour, it enjoyed the spectacle and the passing sensation of culture. Alas, it soon passed.

To say that Dr. Weir's speech was the best of the present debate perhaps is not a very striking compliment. It was expected to be that, for the government always calls on him when a skillful argument is required, a rapier rather than a truncheon. And besides, the competition, for a man like Dr. Weir, wasn't very serious.

The Provincial Secretary is a highly-strung, nervous man who has been said to twang, when excited, like a taut wire. But once into his stride, he forgets himself entirely in the pressure of his subject and he composes extemporaneously on his feet with a few scrawled, illegible notes, much better language than most other speakers write laboriously in advance and then read surreptitiously from their desks, in breach of the rules.

He ascended Tuesday at the start in a startling column of oratorical fire—such an extraordinary cloud of phrase and epigram that the House sat dumb with amazement, and the Premier grinned, red-faced and delighted, with a paternal grin and a pardonable pride in his official family. His fatherly delight was really moving to look down on.

ERUPTION

NO USE trying to reproduce Dr. Weir's flights of fancy, his sudden volcanic upheavals of smouldering words, smoking paragraphs, molten adjectives. Such words as phantasmagoria, euphoria and, most lush of all, tergiversation, he hurled about like Jove's thunderbolts. Well, anyway, they sounded fine at the time, but you can't reproduce Dr. Weir's breast-heaving fervor, his flights of satire, and the simple, gaping look of the House.

It was fine, too, even if you didn't know where they came from, to hear his quotations from Shakespeare, Dryden, Socrates, Peter the Hermit, Josh Billings and certain obscure Continental philosophers; especially fine when he recited, with mock heroics at the expense of the opposition, those stirring lines from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" about the lunatic, the poet and the lover being of an imagination all compact.

It is highly improper to refer to honorable members of this House as lunatics, but Dr. Weir got away with it by sticking to his Shakespeare. And as he recited that nice piece about the poet's eye with a fine frenzy rolling from earth to heaven, he looked the part himself; utterly. His eye rolled in a fine frenzy for the better part of an hour.

PATIENCE

BUT ALL this was mere ornamentation on the serious structure of his speech. It was designed not only to defend the government, but to get him out of an exceedingly difficult position; or at least to explain why he was in it. Whether he succeeded in that explanation of the collapse of health insurance the wise electorate can judge. Certainly he was not able to promise any immediate change in the present situation, which must be more unsatisfactory to him than any other.

Still, he is an impatient man who has learned patience, a restless man who has learned to move slowly. He is not discouraged, but disappointed. He awaits his time and he will continue to wait, confident not alone of health insurance but ultimately of state medicine. Meanwhile he does more for health in British Columbia than any man before him, and that ought to be some satisfaction, even if practical politics is on top just now.

Capt. MacGregor MacIntosh, who followed, is one of the most popular men in the House—a soldier who left an arm in France, a raconteur and a good fellow, who has lately begun to take things seriously. His speech indicated that he will be one of the most useful men in the Conservative Party.

It was to forests that he devoted most of his attention and he showed a real grasp of forestry problems, with some practical suggestions for their solution. He speaks quietly, modestly and with conviction, and has that priceless gift, presence and personality. He should go quite a way in his trade.

Good old Sid Leary wound up the day and the long, and not very useful, life of this debate on the Speech from the Throne. As chief Liberal whip, Capt. Leary is the government's handy man and a friend of every member in the House. He likes to come down from the woods of Kaslo-Slocan once a year and tell the House all about it, all about the interior and its roads and silver mines and timber and its Doukhobors; especially its Doukhobors.

This year Capt. Leary has come down with a new and striking idea—he would send the Doukhobors up to the Peace River and stop all their nonsense. Mr. Braden, of Peace River, didn't look enthusiastic about it.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place.

And in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly—
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead,
Short days ago we lived,
Felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved,
And now we lie
In Flanders Fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you, from falling hands, we throw
The torch, be yours to hold it high;
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Fields.

Remembrance Day Revives Memories

From a Woman Correspondent

AS Remembrance Day draws near, it revives old memories of a hard and bitter struggle brought to an end on that day—November 11, 1918. We hoped at the time that it was a war to end all wars. Evidently, it was not, as war seems to be the general topic of the day, with its screaming headlines across our daily newspapers, and news broadcasts from the radio. War in Europe, war in China. Will wars and rumors of wars ever cease?

I took a minor part in the World War, and shall never forget it as long as I live. I was just a young girl then, and its horrors have been stamped on my memory. The tramp, tramp, tramp of marching feet, bands playing, boys whistling, and singing old war songs as they journeyed from the training camps in England to the railway stations to take their departure to the battle front. I know there are scores of Canadian veterans who remember Salisbury Plains (the land of mud), Bramshott, St. Martin's, Otterpool, and countless other training camps, from whence they departed for the battlefields of France, perfect specimens of fine manhood, and—whom—today, spared to "come back," are physical wrecks; others penniless and homeless, trudging the streets looking for that "job" which seldom turns up.

Our family numbered nine. Just two of us are left, on account of war. I am not a pacifist, however, but I am a lover of peace and harmony.

During the two-minute silence Thursday morning, may we bow our heads and breathe a silent prayer for peace, and that God in His mercy will deliver us all from a recurrence of war.

DUNCAN, B.C.

CHILD CARD PEDLARS

To the Editor:—In your issue of November 8, Mr. A. Cross writes on "Taxing Child Pedlars." It is obvious that he misunderstands the issue.

Local firms having paid the required license fees object to eastern organizations entering this field without paying a license.

The children, or more often adults who wish to sell cards, should arrange to represent properly licensed firms and thereby save themselves from assuming the onus arising from acting for firms who evade the payment to the city of the required fees.

Of course, if outside firms are allowed to hide behind children and no notice is taken of their activities, local firms who protect their agents, children or adults, by paying licenses, are placed at a disadvantage.

ARMISTICE MESSAGE

The eleventh month, the hour,
The day,
Mark well, year by year,
With deep respects for the honored dead
And for the ranks still left, a cheer.

In many lands they left the mark
Of justice, truth and right.
This heritage of grace is yours;
Stand true and guard the right.

And ye shall know unto this day,
They kept the faith for you,
And counted not the cost or pain,
But kept the Empire true.

REMEMBRANCE DAY IDEALS

To the Editor:—John Brown commenced the war for the liberation of the slaves in the United States with an army of 22 men—17 whites and five blacks. At their first fight at Harper's Ferry John Brown and his men perished. John Brown's body lay mouldering in the grave but his soul marched forward to victory with those who caught the torch of freedom from his falling hand.

Canadian credit is high in the international money markets of Wall Street and Threadneedle Street, and Canadian debt is high in the cities and provinces of Canada. Our British ancestors have won for us personal freedom, religious freedom and political freedom.

Our fight today is not capital against labor, but capital and labor combined, which stands for industry against international finance.

Social Crediters believe that it is true wisdom to serve God instead of Mammon. We believe that the triumphant anthem of Canada is: "O Canada, we stand on guard for thee!" and not "O Bank of Canada, we stand on guard for thee!"

We believe that the motto of Canada is "From Sea to Sea"—and that our beloved Dominion takes her motto and her ideals from verse 8 of Psalm 72: "His dominion shall be from sea to sea."

To these ideals we rededicate ourselves on Remembrance Day.

Sooke, B.C.

REMEMBER

Remember the men who answered the call
Even tho' they knew they'd fall;
Bravely they sailed to the other side,
Gallantly fought and gallantly died.

Remember them throughout the years,
Shed for them a few kind tears;
Let them high in your memories ride,
It was for you they fought and died.

Remember them each Armistice Day,
Then they in vain won't have passed away;
Sing of their victories, loudly and long,
Sing of them, too, in every song.
—Robert Sandes.

A TRIBUTE TO THE POPPIES
Poppies are so staunch and true,
Emblems of our glorious dead.
In their coats of green and helmets of red,
They keep watch.

Whispering they are gallant men
Who lie beneath the soil.
Then they bow their heads and weep
Tears of blood they cannot keep
Falls upon the ground of those
Who gave their all
That we might live.

SCOTS' SONGS ILLUSTRATED

Mrs. A. S. Christie Directs Programme For Burns Club

A programme of Scottish songs, illustrated by living pictures, comprised an interesting entertainment presented under the auspices of the Burns Club to a capacity audience of Scottish folk in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening.

Under the direction and supervision of Mrs. A. S. Christie the entertainment was so successful that it will be repeated November 24 in aid of the I.O.D.E. It was also suggested there may be a special performance for young people.

In acknowledgement of the splendid work she has done for the Burns Club during her years of association with it, Mrs. Christie was honored during the evening with the presentation of a life membership by W. B. Grant, president. The tribute to Mrs. Christie's work was fittingly paid by W. A. Jameson, vice-president.

The presentation of the illustrations showed a keen appreciation for historical accuracy and demonstrated considerable work in their preparation on the parts of both Mrs. Christie and those taking part.

During the choruses of some of the more familiar songs, the audience join in, under the direction of W. C. Fyfe. The programme follows with the singers named first and those who posed the picture following: "Highland Mary," R. Morrison, with T. McMartin and Miss Wallace; "Ae Fond Kiss," Mrs. A. Moreby and Mr. McMartin; "I'm Ower Young to Marry Yet," Mrs. Marjorie Goodwin, with June Dewar and J. Phillips; "Kate Dalrymple," J. Petrie, with Mrs. Duncan MacBride, J. Grant, J. Dewar and J. ## Journalist Amuses Women

Thos. Wayling Tells Canadian Club Of His Experiences

His experiences at the Coronation ceremonies, at the naval review and in Germany were graphically and amusingly described by Mr. Thos. Wayling of Ottawa, free lance journalist, before a crowd of over 600 members of the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon. Mrs. H. L. Campbell presided.

His talk touched upon the education and the reaction of the man in the street to it, and later, Mr. Wayling recalled the view of Lady Aberdeen, who showed him a book of portraits of the Royal Family in which she had written as a foreword: "As to Edward, we shall watch his future with affectionate anxiety."

Mr. Wayling paid warm tribute to Lady Aberdeen, whom he interviewed at Gordon House, near Aberdeen. Among her many ancestral treasures he admired a beautiful little table, and was told by Lady Aberdeen that, when forced to sell many of her treasures to meet the heavy death duties following her husband's death, Queen Mary had bought the table and returned it to Lady Aberdeen, with her love.

Mr. H. G. Wyatt of the League of Nations Society also spoke briefly, urging the women to join the society and thus do their share in outlawing war.

Mr. Frank Ivings, tenor, was the soloist, and was ably accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. C. Warn.

Announcement was made that Dean Mary L. Bollert of the University of British Columbia would speak at the next meeting, Tuesday, November 23.

The benefits of unit heating are well known to most executives and a large percentage of new construction employs this heating method. But now there's a better way—proven by 10 years of use—that gives all the benefits of unit heating plus the elimination of all costs of running a central heating plant.

Humphrey Gas Unit Heaters are used. They suspend from the ceiling or wall. A gas supply pipe, vent and electrical connections are all that's required. They are inexpensive and easy to install.

NO HEAT WASTED

Other economies result from better use of heat. There is no heat loss through long transmission lines. Powerful fans prevent heat banking up under high ceilings. There is no overheating or stuffy congested spaces near the units. Temperature is automatically controlled by thermostats, which can also be set to lower temperatures when desired—ideal for intermittent heating of public buildings or warehouses infrequently used. # Wide Field For Province's Case to Rowell Commission

Hart Tells House Broad Headings of Cabinet Proposals

But No Details of B.C.'s Plea Given By Finance Minister

British Columbia intends to cover a very wide field in its representations to the Rowell commission on Dominion-provincial relations when it sits here early next year, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, told the Legislature in his budget speech this afternoon.

Mr. Hart did not disclose any details of what the province proposes to ask the commission, but indicated the submissions would be under the following broad headings:

Political aspects of the union with Canada, which covers British Columbia's case for better terms, financial limits for the province and municipalities, and uniting of undeveloped areas with the older provinces, such as the Yukon annexation plan.

Economic issues which cover the following points:

The effect of national policy on British Columbia since 1871.

Provincial loss in the control of tariffs.

The effect of trade treaty policies on B.C.

The effects of rail communication and Panama Canal ship traffic on the province.

Physical disabilities of the province within Canada.

The possibilities of indirect compensation to the province.

An analysis of "protected and unprotected activities" in British Columbia.

The effect of tariffs on producers and consumers.

The terms of trade between British Columbia and eastern Canada.

Regional effects of rail and water freight rates.

Manufacturing growth in the east compared with British Columbia.

And the municipal financial problem.

Mr. Hart said the importance of the matters referred to the commission could not be emphasized too strongly.

"The question involved," he said, "and the possible decisions, entail consequences vital to the life of the Dominion and the provinces. They involve more than the mere question of dollars and cents as they cover a wide field with respect to our constitution, our sociological outlook and economic life."

"There have been at least 125 major litigations in connection with the British North America Act and we still do not know where we stand. The problem is not so much one as to whether people desire certain services, but as to which of the two governments has authority to administer them, and which of the two is the most able to do so."

How Debt Rose In Twenty Years

In the last 20 years British Columbia's gross debt has increased by $141,499,544, rising from $45,681,860 on March 31, 1917, to $187,181,404 on October 1, 1937. Hon. John Hart pointed out in his budget speech this afternoon.

Mr. Hart reviewed the gross debt increase in periods coinciding with the changes in government during the time. Briefly, they are summarized as follows:

Debt as at—

March 31, 1917 $45,681,860

August 20, 1928 104,341,130

November 1, 1933 166,938,595

October 1, 1937 187,181,404

Mr. Hart pointed out that since he assumed office in 1933 the increase in gross debt has been $20,182,809. This was made up of $18,259,430 in relief borrowings, $4,000,000 for the Fraser River bridge, $3,000,000 for general works, and $415,000 for the P.G.E. Railway, a total of $25,674,430, which was offset by the repayment of $5,491,621 of other debts in the meantime.

Bridge Bonds Sold To Sinking Funds

Financing of the new Pattullo Bridge across the Fraser River was completed by selling two issues of $1,000,000 each to the provincial sinking funds this year, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announced in his budget speech today.

The bridge bonds are for a term of 20 years and bear interest at 3 per cent. The other $2,000,000 required for the $4,000,000 bridge was obtained two years ago by selling bonds direct-

B.C. Relief Has Cost $63,342,615

Unemployment Bill in Last Fiscal Year Was $10,218,825 in Province

Unemployment relief, since the depression began, has cost $63,342,615 in British Columbia, Hon. John Hart said in his budget speech today.

Out of this the cost to the provincial government has been $32,951,681, to the Dominion Government $21,844,389, and to municipalities $8,546,544.

In the fiscal year ending last March 31, the relief bill was $10,218,825, of which $7,628,291 was for direct relief and $2,590,534 for works.

The province's share of the year's total was $5,645,378, the Dominion's share $3,724,646, and the municipal share $848,800.

The provincial treasury financed its portion of the cost by paying $2,689,022 out of its current revenue, borrowing $1,787,850 from the Dominion to pay direct relief, and another $1,168,503 to pay for works.

Mr. Hart noted that since December 1, 1935, the Dominion had reduced its monthly grants in aid for relief from $262,500 down to $120,000, which meant that the province was now bearing a larger share proportionately than before.

"When it is borne in mind that a fair proportion of those in receipt of the allowance are unemployed and that quite a large number are immigrants from other parts of the Dominion, it must be obvious to everyone that prompt remedial measures are necessary," the Finance Minister stated.

BORROWINGS ARE LISTED

In the year ending October 1 the British Columbia treasury borrowed $8,115,000 and repaid $1,243,063 of old debt, which left an increase in the gross debt at the end of the 12-month period of $6,871,936.77, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, reported to the Legislature today.

The new borrowings were $5,000,000 in debentures and $3,115,000 in treasury bills.

BORROWINGS

Following were the details:

(1) To secure funds to complete the construction of the Fraser River bridge, two issues of $1,000,000 each were sold to the provincial sinking funds. Both were on a 20-year 3 per cent basis with a callable feature at any time during the life of the security. The first issue was dated January 4, 1937, and the second June 15, 1937.

(2) To secure funds for sundry public works, $3,000,000 three-year 3 per cent debentures, at a cost basis to the province of 3.5 per cent, were sold to a syndicate headed by Wood, Gundy & Co. on March 15, 1937.

(3) Treasury bills to the Dominion Government for unemployment relief purposes, $2,950,000.

(4) Treasury bills to the bank for construction work on the P.G.E. Railway, $90,000.

(5) Treasury bills to the Superannuation Fund in connection with property and public buildings, $75,000.

REPAYMENTS

Against these increases in debt were the following decreases by way of debt repayments, totaling $1,243,063:

(1) Repayment of $445,000 of sinking debentures falling due last July 1, for which $397,759.79 was obtained from sinking funds and $47,240.21 appropriated from consolidated revenue.

(2) Repayment of two treasury bills to the Dominion Government amounting to $273,363.23, funds for which were taken from consolidated revenue.

(3) Installments paid on serial debentures amounting to $315,000.

(4) Installments on B.C. House mortgage, $9,700.

to the bridge company. These latter were only three-year bonds, bearing 3 1/2 per cent interest. They mature in 1938.

The latest issues sold to the sinking funds do not mature until 1957. They were issued on January 4 and June 15 of this year.

P.G.E. Cost To B.C. $86,776,447

The obligation of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to British Columbia now stands at the sum of $86,776,447, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, reported to the House this afternoon.

This is made up of $57,649,577 in loans and advances made to the railway, $20,160,000 being guaranteed bonds and stock which are now treated as a direct provincial obligation, $8,966,870 in interest on advances made by the province to implement its guarantee and $40,000 in capital stock held by the province.

Last year the line had a net operating profit of $151,191, which was applied on capital re-

SINKING FUNDS IN B.C. BONDS

Nearly 90 Per Cent in Province's Own Stock, Finance Minister Says

Sinking funds established for the retirement of British Columbia debt are largely made up of either British Columbia bonds or P.G.E. Railway guaranteed stock and bonds, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, told the Legislature this afternoon.

The sinking funds at October 1 last were worth $36,018,746, valuing all British Columbia securities at par and others at the prevailing market price. This was an increase of $1,324,198 since October 1 last year.

Mr. Hart said that 86.28 per cent of the sinking funds, by par value, were in British Columbia's own bonds or P.G.E. securities. The actual amount, par value, was $29,686,382 out of $34,409,811.

Other major items are $2,713,067 in Canadian National Railway bonds and $1,355,033 in Alberta, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan bonds, with a few smaller amounts in varied issues.

Mr. Hart said that when he left the treasury in 1924 only B.C. bonds or B.C. guaranteed bonds were held in the funds. While he was absent the policy was changed and he found $4,057,729 of other securities in the funds when he returned in 1933.

Since then, said the Finance Minister, he had transferred $1,341,222 of other securities into B.C. bonds, and would carry out further liquidation as market conditions were favorable.

The sinking funds, he said, were $12,434,120 short of theoretical requirements, but against this the province had a recoverable amount of $10,652,802 in various dyking and irrigation loans, so actually the shortage was largely offset.

BUDGET COSTS RISE SHARPLY

Finance Minister Shows $7,000,000 Increase in Five Years

The cost of general government services in British Columbia has increased by $6,986,690 in the five years from 1933 to 1938, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, showed the Legislature this afternoon.

Comparing the actual expenditure for 1933-34 and the estimates for 1938-39, Mr. Hart said the ordinary expenditures, not including debt charges, had risen from $12,221,527 to $19,178,218.

The Finance Minister pointed out that in 1933 the departments were working on skeleton requirements for the depression and added:

"The increases referred to are the unavoidable result of re-establishing adequate services to cope with a rapid increase in our population, and to meet the insistent demand for an expansion in social services incidental to the ravages of depressed economic conditions in the past."

Surplus Account Is Shown Larger

In presenting the provincial balance sheet to the Legislature today, Hon. John Hart said British Columbia had a surplus in assets over liabilities of $18,180,236 at March 31 last. He places assets at $257,462,667 and liabilities at $239,282,431.

This surplus, he said, was $1,455,983 greater than on March 31, 1936.

In the year the government wrote off $2,830,094 as dead loss on its unemployment relief expenditure,

B.C. Revenues Are Again At New High

Collections During Current Year Will Reach $29,000,000, Says Hart

Revenue collected by the provincial treasury during the fiscal year of 1937-38, ending next March 31, will probably reach $29,000,000, exceeding by nearly $1,000,000 the record established in fiscal 1936-37, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announced in the Legislature this afternoon, reviewing the comptroller-general's report for the first six months of the year.

By comparison with the collections in the same period last year, revenue in the six months from April 1 to September 30 this year is $1,625,277 greater.

They reached, for the six months, a figure of $16,618,363, as against $14,993,086. The increase is more than 10 per cent.

The estimated revenue for the full fiscal year is $26,469,341, so that if the now anticipated figure of $29,000,000 is attained, a surplus of $1,800,000 on current accounts is expected, to be used toward payment of unemployment relief.

Expenditures are $7,465,872 greater than last year in the six months, but Mr. Hart had provided in this budget for an increase of nearly $1,000,000 for the year.

The income tax leads in the revenue increase, reading $738,928 more than the previous year. Liquor profits are up $256,144, the gasoline tax collection $257,335, timber sales $102,301, timber royalties $77,544, motor licenses $89,811, and rural school taxes $96,751.

Sees Industries Up $30,000,000

Hart Records Gains in Primary Production During 1937

The production value of British Columbia's four basic industries will total $219,730,000 during the current year, Hon. John Hart estimated in his budget speech this afternoon.

This will be an increase of $30,000,000, about 16 per cent, over last year.

By industries, the Finance Minister estimated the probable values as follows:

Agriculture, $53,230,000, against $46,669,735 last year.

Mining, $70,000,000, against $54,000,000.

Lumbering, $79,000,000, against $72,000,000.

Fisheries, $17,500,000, against $17,231,534.

He placed the value of the tourist trade at $35,000,000, up 10 per cent from last year.

Bank debits, up to the end of August, increased 4.7 per cent. "These," he said, "are the real barometers of industrial and commercial progress, and indicate conclusively that British Columbia is marching forward to prosperous times, and that sound government policy has been a major factor in the general recovery."

B.C. Guarantees Are Reviewed

Over and above its ordinary debt and liabilities, British Columbia has contingent liabilities amounting to $48,277,857, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, told the Legislature this afternoon.

The big item in this is $40,157,523 of Canadian Northern Pacific Railway stock guaranteed by the province, but, Mr. Hart explained, this, "to all intents and purposes, has been taken over by the government of the Dominion through the Canadian National Railways and, therefore, is not likely to be the subject of call on the province to supplement its guarantee."

There is a provincial guarantee of $7,283,333 to the Vancouver and Districts Joint Sewerage and Drainage Board. Toward its repayment the board has set up a sinking fund which was valued last December 31 at $913,493.

Another provincial guarantee is to the Agriculture Credit Commission, totaling $1,000,000. The sinking funds established against this are $679,247.

There is a guarantee of $87,000 for the West Nicomen Dyking District, on which the sinking fund at September 30, 1936, was worth $25,095, guarantees through the Department of Industries amounting to $41,082, and to the British Columbia Cancer Foundation $103,975 in backing on their note to secure a radium supply.

NO AID NEXT YEAR TO CITIES

Government Says It Is Now Carrying Most of Relief Burden

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, told the Legislature today that because of the large unemployment relief bill shouldered by the provincial government, he could not give any further aid to municipal treasuries next year.

Mr. Hart said that out of $4,281,730 spent on relief in municipal territory last year the government had paid $3,433,025, leaving the cities to meet but $848,705.

He declared that last session the government gave $690,000 in special aid to the municipalities and since 1934 had given them extra educational grants amounting to $395,000.

The government, he added, was fully aware of municipal difficulties, and had invited them to prepare briefs for the Rowell commission.

Nearsighted children are apt to prefer reading books and playing indoors with toys, because of their poor sight for distant objects.

BUDGET SHOWS COSTS IN PROVINCE HIGHER

revenue surpluses are applied against reducing relief borrowings. In the year from October 1, 1936, to October 1, 1937, the net debt increased by $5,547,738. For the other years which are not finished no debt figures, of course, are available.

Increased cost of social services will be a big factor in the higher costs of government next year, the new budget shows. The estimated increases include $46,561 more for tuberculosis control, $141,036 more for mental hospitals, $19,128 for the Home for the Aged, $80,000 for mothers' pensions, $20,000 for the superannuation fund, and $99,431 for old age pensions.

The vote for the new Department of Trade and Industries is $217,564, but this is a net increase of but $70,000, as $147,284 was formerly spent under other headings. Of the increase $50,000 is for an exhibit at the Golden Gate Exposition. An additional $179,000 is provided for roads, bridges and ferries, and $20,177 more for highways in municipalities.

Other new costs are $40,000 more for forest protection and $25,000 for sport fish propagation, financing a plan for the province to take over fish hatcheries.

Details of how provincial revenues are rising is shown in his estimates on the other side of the budget, which anticipate the following increases over the 1937-38 estimates: In liquor profits, $195,000; motor licenses, $350,000; gasoline tax, $50,000; income tax, $950,000; pari-mutuel tax, $40,000;

B.C. Net Debt Up In Year By $5,547,738

On October 1 of this year the gross debt of British Columbia was $187,181,404.13, an increase of $6,871,936.77 in the 12 months, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, reported in his budget speech yesterday afternoon in the Legislature.

The net debt of the province at the same date was $151,162,657.81, an increase of $5,547,738.60 in the year.

Mr. Hart gave the following as the individual items in the debt:

Stocks and debentures outstanding	$125,426,236.00
P.G.E. guaranteed stocks and bonds	20,160,000.00
Treasury bills
To the Dominion	31,271,716.49
To the bank	6,105,906.48
To superannuation fund	75,000.00
Balance of B.C. House mortgage	75,175.00
Unfinanced deficits (contracted before March 31, 1934)	4,067,370.16

Two Canadians In Spain Killed

TORONTO (CP)—Matt Elmaki, Port Arthur, Ont., was one of two Canadians whose deaths in the Spanish war were announced Tuesday. The other victim was Harry Roberts, 27, Winnipeg engineer.

The two Canadians were fighting with the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion on the government side.

Relative humidity is highest at night and in the early morning, due to the fact that cooler air cannot hold so much water as warm air.

Scotland and Ireland In Football Draw

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

THE ANSWER to a duffer's prayer—a golf ball that reduces hook and slice—is being shown privately by its Cleveland inventor, John R. Farrar, a structural designer in the engineering department of a railroad, has been playing golf eight years. He shoots around 92 usually, some times getting down to about 85.

Some time ago he was trying to induce a friend to take up the game, but the latter stalled him off with: "Till play when somebody invents a ball that won't slice." So Farrar set out to do the inventing himself. He designed a ball with eight circular grooves, and had a quantity made. His theory is that if the ball is struck on either side, producing a hook or slice, the ball will rotate smoothly without creating turbulent air currents, and the amount of hook or slice is reduced by about 25 per cent.

The catch is in the fact that the ball must be fed up with the grooves in horizontal position, making it necessary to play winter rules on the fairway to obtain effectiveness. Farrar says his ball has been tested on driving machines and compared with standard balls, bearing out his contention. His ball will give about the same distance as a standard ball, he asserts. He expects to place it on the market.

Success, if it comes in athletics, is generally achieved before 30. The mathematicians have been figuring out the age of those pre-eminent in various sports. They have discovered that champion hockey players are generally at their best between 25 and 29, and most motorcar races are won by people between the same ages. A slight difference is noted in tennis, but, on the average, the period is the same. In outdoor tennis the "success" age is from 22 to 26.

Professionals winning world championships are most likely to be 25 to 29 years old, but records for billiards are most often set up by players between 30 and 34. Golf championships are usually won between the ages of 29 and 34 (the younger limit generally refers to amateur players and the older to professionals). The best shots for both rifle and pistol are between 25 and 29.

Boxing is difficult to give a rule for. This is because there is a general tendency for boxers as they get older to put on weight, and so fight in a heavier class. Thus heavyweight boxers are most likely to gain the world's championship when they are 29, but light-heavy and middle-weights can expect to reach championship status when they are 27. The best weight for welterweights is 25, lightweight 26, featherweights 25 and 26, and bantams in their 24th year.

Sport ramblings—Ginger Foran, crack British featherweight, was no sooner off the boat in New York than he was offered $2,500 to fight Henry Armstrong. . . . Ginger turned it down right now. . . . The way to debut in America is not against Armstrong. . . . One of the best stories coming out of the Walter Johnson birthday dinner the other night was told by Clark Griffith. . . . The Washington directors scolded Griffith for signing Johnson for $12,000 after the 1918 season. . . . "They were sore at him," said Griffith. . . . "He had only won 23 games the season before." . . . Despite her denials, betting in New York is that Mrs. Helen Wills Moody will begin touring for cash soon after the first of the year. . . . This is what you call professional courtesy. . . . The U.S. customs officials held up a shipment of bikes for the French six-day team of Ignat and

Former Rally In Second Half to Gain 1 to 1 Tie

Irish Display Surprising Strength in International Match at Aberdeen 25,000 Attend

ABERDEEN, Scotland (CP)—Ireland and Scotland each netted a point in the international soccer tournament today, the two countries playing to a 1 to 1 draw. Twenty-five thousand spectators saw the Scots score a second-half goal after the Irish had tallied 15 minutes after the start of the game.

Scotland quickly developed an attack on the right, where Delaney forced a fruitless corner. Peter Doherty and Coulter quickly carried play to the other end, but the movement broke down through Simpson's timely intervention.

Tommy Walker caught the eye with some smart work on the Scottish attack, but the home forwards seemed slow to settle down. There was a thrill in the Irish goalmouth when Reid dismissed Hayes, but the Brentford winger's shot was skillfully parried by Breen.

The Irish left wing was a source of trouble to Scotland's defenders, and after 15 minutes Peter Doherty accepted Coulter's pass to run in and beat Dawson with a great 10-yard drive into the top of the net.

Continuing to dominate the play, Ireland's forwards gave a clever display of quick, accurate passing. On one occasion Peter Doherty went through on his own and it took three Scots to stop him.

SECOND HALF

A likely-looking Scottish move, was nullified when Delaney was pulled up for offside, but only three minutes had elapsed when the Scots equalized. Walker took the ball upfield and passed to Smith, whose shot was blocked. The centre-forward regained possession, however, and sent the ball into the corner of the net, past Breen's outstretched arm.

Scotland improved and Smith headed the ball against the crossbar. Then McPhail was carried off following a collision with Breen. He was off the field for 15 minutes, but during that time the Scottish forwards attacked strongly.

Returning, McPhail went to outside-left and the home attack tried hard to pull out a victory. Near the end the Scots made a determined raid, but Breen safely held a vicious drive by Smith.

Bob Feller To Work Regularly

CLEVELAND—In 1938, manager Oscar Vitt of Cleveland Indians declared yesterday, pitcher Bob Feller "will take his turn just as it comes."

In so many words Vitt, newly appointed pilot of the tribe, foresees the 1938 policy of former manager Steve O'Neill and the Indians' management—that of making Feller largely a "Sunday pitcher" as a lure to the crowds.

HUNTER LOSES LIFE

GLEICHEN, Alta.—W. McConnell, 50-year-old Gleichen garage operator, shot below the heart when his rifle accidentally discharged during a coyote hunting trip, died in hospital at Bassano Tuesday.

Diet . . . So the German team of Kilian and Vogel generously laid the Frenchmen use their spare mounts.

Dominoes Meet Elks Saturday

The scalps of the Seattle Elks will be the aim of the Victoria Dominoes Saturday night when they meet at the High School gym in an inter-city exhibition basketball tussle. Such well-known players as Bob Paulson, Harold Harlan, Jackson Hofditz, Dick Foster, Arne Faust, Bill Estep and Jim Corrigan will be over for the game. According to Will Ritchie, secretary, the Elks are seniors to the Antlers, who went down to a smashing defeat here two weeks ago. A preliminary game will open the programme at 8.

JOE MEDWICK IS MOST VALUABLE

St. Louis Slugger Voted Highest Award in National League Baseball

NEW YORK—Joe Medwick, the playoff guy of the St. Louis Cardinals gashouse gang, has the National League's most valuable player award for 1937 to add to his record string of batting "firsts."

"Muscles" did all he could to earn the prize. He won the batting championship, led in hits, runs batted in and doubles, and tied with the New York Giants' Mel Ott for the home run title. Even so, he barely nosed out Gabby Hartnett, the spirited Chicago catcher, who drew 68 votes to Joe's 70.

Eight members of the Baseball Writers' Association made the selection. They gave Gabby more first-place nominations than Medwick, but Muscles more than made up that deficit with votes for second and third place to grab

Lazzeri Signs With Cubs

"Now just what will I do with him?" Owner-president Philip K. Wrigley, left, of the Chicago Cubs, appears to be asking himself as Tony Lazzeri signs as coach and utility infielder. The supposition is that the erstwhile veteran star of the New York Yankees is headed for the management of the National League Baseball Club.

HUBBELL THIRD

Carl Hubbell, the shrewd, smooth left-hander of the Giants, won the award last year, was third choice with 52 points. Two newcomers to the headlines, the Boston Bees' venerable rookie pitchers, Jim Turner and Lou Fette, wound up fourth and fifth. They edged out such well-known players as Dick Bartell and Mel Ott of the Giants, and Paul Waner of Pittsburgh.

In the balloting among the eight writers—one from each of the seven cities and one borough in the league—a first-place vote counted 10 points, second nine, and so on for 10 selections. Medwick drew two first-place nominations, Hartnett three.

"BLIMP" LEVY TO SHOW HERE

Largest Matman in the World Booked For Saturday Night Show

Th world's biggest wrestler, Martin Levy, who weighs more than a quarter of a ton—667 pounds to be exact—and who makes "Man Mountain" Dean look small, will crash the local wrestling spotlight Saturday night when he appears on the Tillicum gym show.

"Blimp," as he is better known to the wrestling fraternity, is six feet tall, but has a waist measurement that beats his height. He can turn a somersault and does the splits with the grace of a ballet dancer.

Martin will appear in the special attraction, and his opponent will be "Little Herbie" Freeman, New York. Freeman weighs 265 pounds, but alongside the "Blimp" he will look very diminutive. However, there should be plenty of fun for the fans when these two "little men" meet.

The match will be a one-fall, no time limit affair. Two other matches, bringing together out-of-town performers, will be added to the programme. The first bout will start at 8:45.

FOOTBALL MATCH

In the Intermediate Football League Cameron's and the Coopers will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 at the Heywood Avenue grounds. Edgar Borde will referee.

Rugby Rally On Air This Evening

A real old-fashioned rugby rally will take place tonight when players, coaches and officials in connection with tomorrow's army and navy clash at Macdonald Park gather at radio station CFCT.

It is planned to interview the coaches of the respective fifteens while several of the players will also speak. A musical programme will round out the show.

OAK BAY GOLF

Clubs presented by Phil Taylor, club professional, for competition for women members who scored in the caddies' tournament were won by Mrs. L. O. Howard, with the same card as above, and by Mrs. H. A. Tomalin in B class with a score of 98-21-77.

Come From Behind to Draw 2 to 2 in First Hockey Appearance

If Chicago's Black Hawks are to become contenders for National Hockey League honors this season their power will have to come from veterans or from players picked up between now and the crucial stages. Their owner, Major Frederick McLaughlin, has given up his idea of an all-United States team and Hawks' first two games have shown that they'll rely mainly on experienced men like Mush March, Johnny Gottselig and Earl Selbert.

Oscar Hansen and Cully Dahlstrom were the only newcomers in the line-up last night when Chicago began its road season by tying Canadiens 2 to 2 at Montreal. Coach Bill Stewart did not dress young Vic Heyligher, last winter's University of Michigan captain, and when goals were needed the oldsters stayed on the ice till goals came.

It was Selbert who kept his mates level against the Habits, even though he was serving a penalty for charging when Canadiens tied the score in the last 40 seconds of regulation time. Selbert sparked a rally that brought a goal from Louis Trudel's stick after seven minutes of the third period, then scored himself two minutes later to put Hawks ahead 2 to 1.

George Mantha sank Johnny Gagnon's pass 38 seconds from the 60-minute mark to gain the deadlock and the contest went into overtime. Again Selbert and old reliable like March, Gottselig, Paul Thompson and Glen Brydson bore the brunt as Canadiens swept down.

Montreal, beginning defence of its sectional title, carried the play most of the way. Action speeded up after a listless first period and Toe Blake scored in the second with Jofre Desllets and Pit Lepine assisting.

SUMMARY

First period—No score. Penalties: None.

Second period—1, Canadiens, Blake (Lepine, Desllets), 6:31. Penalties: Buswell.

Third period—2, Chicago, Trudel (March), 7:41; 3, Chicago, Selbert (Gottselig), 9:10; 4, Canadiens, Mantha (Gagnon, Mondou), 19:22. Penalties: Brydson, Haynes, Burke and Selbert.

Overtime period—No score. Penalties: Gagnon and Trudel.

WOULD MOVE DOUKHOBORS

Capt. C. S. Leary Suggests They All Be Sent to Peace River District

Moving of all the Doukhobors in British Columbia up to the Peace River district, where they could be confined to their own settlement, was suggested by Capt. C. S. Leary, Liberal, Kootenai, in the Legislature yesterday as a solution of the never-ending Doukhobor problem in his district.

He would also bar them from government timber sales, restrict their trade licenses, force them to comply with marketing and wage laws, tax them for schools and increase police powers in dealing with them.

The burning of seven schools and other buildings had made settlers in the Slokan Valley furious, he said. Many had not slept for days, fearing for their families a violence which was threatened at several protest meetings.

In a plea for road development, Capt. Leary said he quite realized the work depended on money, and replied to Dr. Lyle Telford's comparison with roads in Washington State by pointing out that Washington collected $14,345,000 in the gas tax last year and British Columbia $2,672,000. It was obvious why road construction went ahead faster there.

He suggested a bonus on silver of 10 cents an ounce to keep the silver mines of the Slokan operating, saying that for an expenditure of $20,000 by bonus the government could save itself $100,000 in eventual relief costs.

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR DEAD

Rev. H. S. Osborne, pastor of the Metropolitan United Church from 1915 to 1920, died yesterday at his home in Toronto, according to word received here.

REV. H. S. OSBORNE

That church was then the Metropolitan Methodist Church. Mr. Osborne was one of its most popular pastors and leaves many former parishioners in Victoria who will sincerely regret to hear of his passing.

He was 70 years of age, and during his life had occupied pulpits in many parts of Canada, from Quebec to Victoria, and at one time he was in Vancouver.

He succeeded Rev. Dr. C. P. Scott at the Methodist Church here, and when he left in 1920 was succeeded by Rev. Dr. W. J. Sippell.

Mr. Osborne was superannuated from church service in 1928, but his wise counsel was often sought by heads of the United Church of Canada.

URGES HELP FOR YOUTH

Macgregor Macintosh Tells House They Could Save B.C.'s Forests

Suggestion, that two of the province's major problems, the future of forest land and the employment of youth, be placed together for the good of both was made in the Legislature yesterday by Macgregor Macintosh, Conservative, the Islands.

He commended the government for its action in connection with forestry training camps, but said the action has not gone far enough. He suggested further forestry camps be instituted and that unemployed single young men start to replant the denuded forest areas of the province on a large scale.

It would save hundreds of acres of forest land, he said, and at the same time provide healthy and remunerative work for many young men.

There were two causes for forest depletion, cutting and fire. He said "we've been taking everything and giving nothing."

There was little use in replanting, however, he said, unless it was also intended to conserve, and more of the forest revenue should be expended on conservation. In the last 25 years, he said, $50,000,000 in forest revenue was spent by the government for purposes other than forest regeneration and protection.

Mr. Macintosh touched briefly on the road question, said they were poor, that tourists took away with them a bad impression and that the road system would never show value until a highway commission, absolutely divorced from politics, was instituted.

Liberal members in the House had said it was bad form to criticize the roads, that it created a bad impression outside the province's borders, Mr. Macintosh said.

"Let me say that a much worse impression is created when visitors bump over our poor roads," he said. "They, then, become the critics. It won't do us any good to hide our heads in the sand any say our road system is fine, when we know that really it is not."

Catalan Chief Is Re-elected

BARCELONA (AP)—The Catalan Parliament Tuesday refused to accept the resignation of President Lluís Companys and re-elected him chief executive of autonomous Catalonia, close ally of the Madrid-Barcelona regime.

A resolution, approved by a vote of 45 to 1, declined Companys' resignation because of "the extraordinary circumstances in Spain and the historical duty imposed upon him."

The famous goose liver delicacy—pate de foie gras—was enjoyed by the ancient Romans.

Would Hold Up Timber Leases

R. D. Harvey Declares Government Should Stop Sales to Japanese

Either the provincial government or Ottawa must act to halt the sale of British Columbia timber leases to Japanese interests.

Robert D. Harvey, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, declared in an address to the Saanich Conservative Association at the Campbell Building last night.

Mr. Harvey said no Occidental would be allowed to hold rights of the nature in Japan, and there was no reason British Columbia should not adopt the same attitude.

"Of course," he said, "we can not exclude the Japanese entirely from holding property, but at least we can see that no lands of tactical importance pass to their control for use in case of war."

Mr. Harvey also urged the concentration of the Canadian naval defences on this coast.

Canadians Honor Late Statesman

Prime Minister King Pays Tribute to Career of Ramsay MacDonald

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians today paid tribute to the memory of Ramsay MacDonald, one-time labor leader, who climbed from a fisherman's cottage to international fame as a peace leader and was three times Prime Minister of the United Kingdom.

From his office on Parliament Hill Prime Minister King, who had known the statesman from Lissiemouth, Scotland, for 40 years, issued a statement saying he had "lost an old and deeply valued friend."

"Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's death brings to its close one of the outstanding political careers in modern times," said Mr. King.

"However critically his political career may be viewed, it will be generally conceded that its purpose throughout was the pursuit of peace and human betterment. The comparative calm into which his life came, ere its close, is perhaps the prelude to a wider recognition which will do full justice to his memory."

TIME OF UNCERTAINTY
"In his last years it was not given to Mr. MacDonald to see a happy fruition of many of his labors and his death has occurred at a time when the peace of the world is clouded and uncertain. No sacrifice was too great for what he conceived to be his duty, or for the great causes he had at heart."

"Many ties and associations, existed between Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and the people of Canada. He paid our country several visits.

"In Mr. MacDonald's death," continued Prime Minister King, "I have lost an old and deeply valued personal friend. A common interest in industrial problems brought us together for the first time in the summer of 1897, when Mr. MacDonald was attending a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in Toronto."

"It was a friendship which I came to share with Mr. MacDonald's son, Malcolm, and with other members of the family."

DR. GORDON'S DEATH
Nine days before the retired British statesman died Tuesday night in a ship bound for South Africa, just a year after he had collapsed at the Lord Mayor's banquet in London, one of his greatest Canadian friends died in Winnipeg. Nine years ago Dr. MacDonald visited Dr. C. W. Gordon, "Ralph Connor," novelist. Five years ago Dr. Gordon stayed with Mr. MacDonald at No. 10 Downing Street, the Prime Minister's London residence.

Mr. MacDonald visited Canada several times, the last in 1934, when he went for a vagabond trip through Nova Scotia, accompanied by his daughter, Isabel, and a Scotland Yard detective. He landed at Digby and visited Halifax, Kentville and Truro.

The Scottish labor leader and his wife visited Canada the year after their marriage in 1896. During the winter of 1899-1900 he was back in Toronto for a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, where he met Mackenzie King.

ON B.C. COAST IN 1928
He returned in 1928, made a tour through the west and visited Ottawa for the first time. The following year he came to Ottawa again and became the third overseas member of the Canadian Privy Council. The other two were those of Mr. Baldwin, now Earl Baldwin, and the Prince of Wales, now the Duke of Windsor.

Then, just before his political decline, he visited Nova Scotia.

New Calgary Bible Institute

Former Members of Premier Aberhart's Group Are Reorganizing

CALGARY (CP)—Organization of a new prophetic Bible institute in Calgary by a group of former members of the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute, of which Premier Aberhart is dean, was announced by A. Cuthbert here Tuesday.

In a statement to the press, Mr. Cuthbert, one of the organizers, said the members of the new institute disapproved with the political policies adopted at the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute.

"Too much time was devoted to politics and not enough to religion," the statement said.

The objective of the new institute is "exploration, with complete freedom from sentiment, the teachings of the Bible... replacing impersonal leadership with a perfecting group which will enjoy equal powers in extending pure enlightenment."

V.O. Nurses Had Active Month

The monthly meeting of the V.O.N. was held on Tuesday at the home of the president, Miss Frances Fitzgibbon.

Miss Creasor gave a report of the nurses' work, which showed a busy month. There were 1,126 visits and 153 new patients reported; 77 babies were weighed and examined at four well-baby clinics; 14 classes in home nursing and child care were conducted, with an attendance of 200 women and girls.

Four pre-natal sewing classes were held and the mothers instructed in sewing and knitting. A donation for this project was gratefully received from the Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter of the I.O.D.E.

Miss Fitzgibbon thanked the board for its splendid co-operation in the Community Chest Campaign. She also thanked Mrs. Holland and Mrs. Parker for their excellent organization of the annual rummage sale and the board members for their support.

An announcement was read, of the Institute on "Sex and Living" conducted by Dr. Nadina Kavinoky of Los Angeles and under the sponsorship of the Victoria Council of Women, to be held in Memorial Hall on November 27. The president of the V.O.N. urged that the members keep these sessions in mind and attend if possible, as Dr. Kavinoky is an outstanding speaker and the Institute will be of interest and value to the community.

Donations to the order during the month are gratefully acknowledged. A list of donors is not kept as the parcels were many times left at the office without a name.

MOTION PICTURE SENT OVER WIRE

Motion picture in sound was telephoned from New York City to Philadelphia yesterday over a coaxial cable, a new medium for television transmission.

The scenes and spoken words passed from the Bell Telephone Company laboratories to a special loud speaker and a glass screen in the company's offices here.

They were the first sent over the new cable, which contains conductor units capable of transmitting simultaneously the currents of 240 different telephone transmitters.

The long-distance movie programme included a picture explaining the cable possibilities—television with a minimum of distortion—and also several films of the news-reel type.

DOMINION
Joe E. Brown joins the ranks of ace foreign correspondents in "Fit for a King," his newest picture, which David L. Loew produced for RKO Radio, and now at the Capitol Theatre.

In "Fit for a King," with a background, in part of a mythical kingdom, Joe takes up the cudgel of the ace newsmen who cover foreign fields, and is severely scooped by Paul Kelly, who represents a rival service—until experience and hard knocks teach him how to turn the tables.

Edward Sadgwick produced the new comedy and the supporting cast includes Helen Mack in the feminine lead and Halliwell Hobbes, Harry Davenport and Russell Hicks.

ERROL FLYNN AT CAPITOL

Popular Star Cast in "The Perfect Specimen," Showing Here Today

Errol Flynn, handsome young Irish actor who leaped to fame overnight in "Captain Blood," a couple of years ago and then carried on with "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "Green Light" and "The Prince and the Pauper," comes to the Capitol Theatre today in a modern comedy-drama called "The Perfect Specimen."

The story deals with an eccentric old lady possessed of many millions who has an ambition to see her grandson raised as an altogether perfect young man, and who for that reason supplies him with an abundance of tutors but keeps him confined to the limits of the family's vast estate.

A young village girl—Joan Blondell—manages to break into the virtual prison and meet the young man. She succeeds in getting him outside of his bounds, and he begins to understand and love the world without.

Others in the cast of today's local premiere include May Robson, Hugh Herbert, Edward Everett Horton, Allen Jenkins, Beverly Roberts, Dick Foran and Dennie Moore.

PLAZA STARS JACK HOLT

Story of French Foreign Legion Opens Tomorrow

The ever-romantic French Foreign Legion provides the background for Columbia's new Jack Holt picture, "Trouble in Morocco," which opens tomorrow at the Plaza Theatre. It is the story of two rival newspaper correspondents, a man and a woman, on the trail of a gun-running yarn in Morocco. Holt's leading lady in the film is Mae Clark, who recently was featured with James Cagney in "Great Guy."

Others who appear in prominent roles are C. Henry Gordon, who was the Arab chieftain in "The Charge of the Light Brigade," Harold Huber, Victor Varconi, Paul Hurst, Bradley Page and Oscar Apfel.

On the same programme will be Carol Hughes in "Meet the Boy Friend."

Clinton Sundberg In Stage Comedy

Clinton Sundberg, one of the leading actors in "Room Service," coming to the Royal Victoria Theatre next Monday night, is playing his second successive season and part as an author. Last year he toured as Bobby Law, the madcap scenarist in "Boy Meets Girl," in addition to portraying this character in London. Only two months after completing this engagement, he set forth as Leo Davis in "Room Service."

In "Boy Meets Girl," Mr. Sundberg was sophisticated, aggressive, eccentric and wise in the ways of Hollywood and Broadway. In "Room Service" he is naive, simple, shrinking and in every respect simply the country yokel just come to town.

MARITIME SAGA NOW AT ATLAS

No Shortage of Windjammer Meas in Filming "Souls at Sea"

There are still several hundred seamen on the Pacific Coast who can handle ships under sail, it was discovered when Paramount started filming its great maritime saga, "Souls at Sea," at the Atlas Theatre today.

Grant Leenhauts, who has been a sailor, a longshoreman and a dory man in his long career, himself much in demand in Hollywood sea pictures, recently opened a bureau listing as many sailing ship sailors as he could contact on the West Coast. Consequently when Paramount sent out its call for 75 able-bodied rigging climbers, no frantic search was necessary. Leenhauts just sent out an "SOS" to his bureau list, and in three days Paramount had all the old-time sailors needed to compete with Gary Cooper and George Raft, who are co-starring mates in the sea drama.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Audiences in London often mistake him for an American. In New York they are certain he is English. Actually he is Canadian. Just to make things more complicated he plays the role of Philip of Spain in Erik Pommer's first British picture, "Fire Over England," which is now at the Oak Bay Theatre. The man with the nationality mix-up is Raymond Massey, whose film star is rapidly in the ascendant.

Outdoor Drama At the Columbia

Ricardo Cortez in "The Californian" Tomorrow

An outdoor drama that captures all the thrilling action and picturesque life of the Far West during the most colorful period of its history, Harold Bell Wright's "The Californian" will open tomorrow at the Columbia Theatre, with Ricardo Cortez in the starring role of the Twentieth Century-Fox release.

The action of the story takes place in the year 1850, just following the great gold rush of the year before and shortly after the American flag has taken the place of the emblem of Mexico over California.

"The Mighty Treve," the second feature, has plenty of authentic canine background. Albert Payson Terhune, author of the original story, owns a famous kennel and has written a score of dog stories.

The London Zoo

Here is an item I found in a London paper the other day: "Corona, the London zoo's baby jaguar, died late last night in the arms of one of her keepers. Born last April, she was only the third jaguar to have been bred in the London zoo in the last 100 years. She is the first British-born jaguar to reach an age as great as seven months."

At the London Zoological Gardens

Jaguars are hard to raise in zoos, but lion cubs often live through years of captivity. Many full-grown lions never saw the jungle, and never wandered in any wild place.

Recently I went to the London zoo, which contains a world-famous collection of animals. Among the animals I wanted to see very much were two gorillas. After passing cages of monkeys and chimpanzees, I reached the building containing the gorillas. What a treat it was to see well-grown gorillas! I would not care to meet one in the wilds of Africa, but I was able to watch these two behind bars without exposing myself to any danger.

The gorillas are named Mok and Moira. A good-sized crowd was watching them when I arrived, and all seemed spellbound as they waited to see what the big animals would do. They didn't do much. One of them—Mok—sat on a ledge. His head was lowered, and he sat very still. It seemed as if he were brooding about something. The other gorilla was more active, and did a little swinging in the trapeze. Later she lifted an armful of straw to the ledge, then climbed up and sat on the straw.

Mok and Moira have been called "the finest pair of gorillas in captivity." They have been in the zoo for four years. Their average weight is over 285 pounds.

The London zoo has more than 1,000 mammals. These include giraffes, an Indian rhinoceros, an okapi and two bongos.

The okapi is one of very few ever captured alive. It came from the Congo region, and was given to the zoo by the King of Belgium.

Children can go to the London zoo and ride on the backs of elephants. Very tame elephants are used for the purpose, and each one is fitted with a saddle of a sort. Eight or 10 boys and girls get "on board" each elephant, and they find the trip a merry thrill.

STRAWBERRY VALE

Miss Rosalie Nott, November bride-to-be, was the guest of honor on the occasion of a shower held last Thursday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Nott, Gerda Road. The large number of beautiful and useful gifts presented to the bride-to-be were concealed in a box decorated to represent a three-tier wedding cake over which was a miniature bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Simpson, Via-duct Road, entertained last Friday evening a number of school friends of their son and daughter, Bobby and Muriel. A programme of games and music was enjoyed.

Common Sense Best in Marriage

Dorothy Dix

Thrills Do Not Make for Long Life

A CORRESPONDENT ASKS: "Would you advise a man to marry a sensible, domestic girl who would keep religiously within the limits of her budget and make a good working partner, even though she did not thrill him; or marry his dream girl, the girl who sets his pulses racing, the girl he wants to take out every night, even though she can't boil water without scorching it, and thinks a budget is something that you manipulate with a can-opener."

"Personally," he continued, "I believe a marriage would be much happier where the husband took his wife in his arms every night and told her of his love than one where he sat across the table and discussed his business plans with her and they added up the savings bank account together. In other words, I don't believe you can have your cake and eat it, too, so far as a wife is concerned. I don't believe true love and congenial companionship can exist at the same time."

A famous neurologist, most of whose patients have been run crazy by their mates, said to me the other day that he had about come to the conclusion that the only solution of the matrimonial problem was for every man to have two wives and every woman two husbands. One wife to be the glamorous Lady Love and the other a good cook; one husband to be a Fairy Prince and the other a go-getter and money-maker.

This arrangement would answer my correspondent's question as to whether it is better to use your head or your heart in picking out a life partner, as it would enable you to have both a parlor ornament and a kitchen utensil. However, there are practical objections to it that make the plan unfeasible. For one thing, in these days of the high cost of living, wives are a luxury and few men can afford more than one at a time. And, Heaven knows, one husband is hard enough for a wife to keep her eye on without her acquiring astigmatism trying to watch two. Hence the polygamous stuff is out.

So this brings the matter back to the original proposition as to whether it is better to marry romantically or sensibly. If all marriage was based on the short-term Hollywood plan, I would be strong for the thrills and root for the dream girl. It must be a grand and glorious sensation for a man to see heaven in a woman's eyes; to palpitate at her touch and have chills and hectic fevers at the very sound of her footsteps. It must give a man a wonderful kick to be so much in love that he throws prudence, caution and common sense to the winds along with his stomach and his pocketbook, and asks only the privilege of gazing at his living picture and buying new and expensive frames for her.

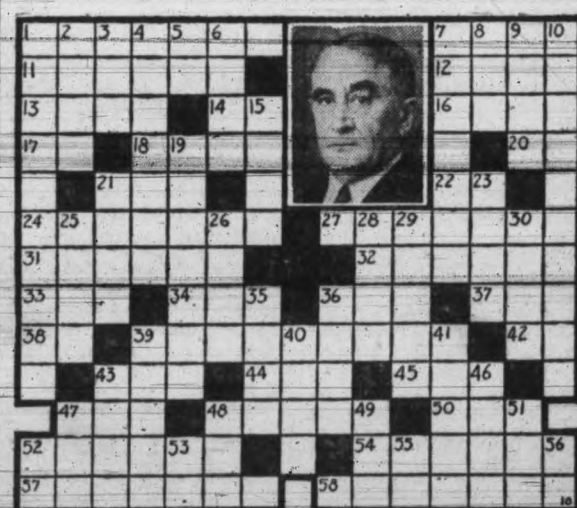

But, alas and alack, marriage is for the long pull and it seems so much longer to a man if he gets a yoke mate who can't, or won't, pull her share of the load. Worse still, thrills are as evanescent as dew on the grass. A man loses his ability to palpitate long before he loses his hair. He no more grows hot and cold at the sight of his wife than he gets excited over an all-day sucker. Nor when he comes home tired and hungry at night is he moved to ask his wife in passionate tones if she loves him. What he wants to know is if dinner is ready.

The sad, sad truth is that we cannot carry romantic love over into our middle-age any more than we can the illusions of our youth. So it is folly for a man to marry in the belief that any woman can keep stirring his pulses for 30 or 40 years. Habit, familiarity, the slowing down of his own blood all preclude that. But, if he has married a woman who has intelligence, strength and stamina; who has fought the battle shoulder to shoulder with him; who has given him love and loyalty and sympathy and understanding, he will know the reality of happy marriage, and he will cling closer and closer to her long after he would have wearied of an old thriller and gone in search of a new one.

The thing that counts most in marriage, the only thing that can keep love alive in marriage is companionship. So my advice to any young man is to pick out for a wife a woman who interests him and who looks at life from his point of view and let the thrills go hang. They will, anyway.

The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blank occurs in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during three of the usual tidal periods.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

KNEES WENT STIFF IN HIS SLEEP

Agony to Move Them
When He Awoke

"For three years," writes this City man, "I suffered with pains across the lower part of my back. In the morning, I awoke with knees so stiff that it was agony to move them. Special treatment would make the pain a little easier—but that was all. Then a friend recommended Kruschen, which my doctor said I might take. I began with about a coffee-spoonful first thing in the morning. To my surprise I found my rheumatic aches and pains disappearing. I kept on with Kruschen, and although I am more than middle-aged, I have been free from pain for two years, and able to go to my office every day."—A.W.

Rheumatic conditions are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel the dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—The trim, 37-foot Nova Scotia ketch Naomi bobbed at anchor in the harbor here today, resting before the continuation of a projected trip around the world, which its skipper-owner, 36-year-old Chas. P. Cox said would end at his native England.

The Naomi, blown off her course, home unexpectedly into the harbor from Shelbourne, N.S. Cox said he had set sail for Boston, but would go "where fancy or necessity dictates."

The Naomi's crew consisted of two youthful seamen, John Gagnon, 19, and Everett McDonald, 22.

MUCH REMAINS TO BE DONE

Says Chairman of Imperial Airways of Trans-Atlantic
Flight Experiments

LONDON (CP-Cable)—Despite the "great promise" of trans-Atlantic flight experiments, much remains to be done before service on a commercial basis can be inaugurated, Sir George Beharrell, chairman of Imperial Airways, said today.

Sir George told stockholders at the company's annual meeting that the company was not pledging itself to any particular class of aircraft for ultimate use of the Atlantic service. Considerable progress, he said, had been made along various alternative lines of development.

In regard to delay in receiving new and faster land planes for European service, he said: "The delay is a serious matter for our company. It is definitely retarding the development of the European services and may delay the introduction of certain stages leading to completion of the full programme of services under the Empire air mail programme."

COAL CARRIER IS OVERDUE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP Cable)—With hope strengthened by the safe arrival here of the four-masted schooner Govin, Newfoundland's southeast coast waiting today for the 1,664-ton freighter Calgadoo, 11 days out from Sydney, N.S., with a cargo of coal.

The Govin toop nine days to complete a 38-mile voyage from Harbor Grace. Her captain, one of 11 persons aboard, said "nothing unusual" had happened on the trip.

The Calgadoo, a great lakes vessel, converted to the Newfoundland coal-carrying trade for Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, should have reached Wabana, Bell Island, her destination, about 60 hours after she left Sydney.

She has not been reported, however, since October 30. A stiff southwest gale that swept over Cabot Strait the day following her departure aroused fears her hatches might have been battered in by the waves.

Limited Market In West Indies

Canada Source of Supply
For Canned Fruits and Vegetables

The market for canned vegetables and fruits in the eastern group of the British West Indies—Trinidad, Barbados, the Windward and Leeward Islands, and British Guiana—is restricted to the white population and the weather-colored people, according to Mr. G. A. Newman, Assistant Canadian Trade Commissioner at Port of Spain.

Canada is the major source of supply for canned vegetables. During the last few years general imports have shown a steady increase until in 1936 the three main markets of Trinidad, Barbados, and British Guiana received imports to the value of $43,500, of which Canada supplied 34.6 per cent, the United States 15.5 per cent, the United Kingdom 15.3 per cent, and Portugal, because of heavy shipments of tomato paste to British Guiana, 10.9 per cent. There has been likewise a general increase in the imports of canned and preserved fruits since 1932. Total imports in 1936 into Trinidad, Barbados, and British Guiana were valued at $31,033, of which the United States was credited with 34.6 per cent, Canada 30.6 per cent, and the United Kingdom 17 per cent.

Long Hammocks For Tall Tars

British Sailors and Soldiers/Hail
With Joy New Admiralty and War Office Regulations for Their Comfort

LONDON (CP)—Tall sailors in particular and army servicemen in general hailed with joy new Admiralty and War Office regulations for their comfort.

For years hammocks have been a regulation length in the British navy. This meant the toes of the more elongated seamen protruded. Fleet orders recently announced small stocks of long hammocks were available for issue.

In order to prevent a demand coming from sailors who are not so tall but who want roomier hammocks the navy has announced all applicants for extra long hammocks will be measured.

What pleased the service men in general was the announcement of a £7,500,000 ($37,500,000) scheme to modernize barracks with central heating, hot water service and floors which are easily kept clean.

Fish Reduction Plants Active

UCLUELET—The large new reduction plant here which has hummed with activity since its completion some four months ago, has now been at a lull for a short time between the ending of the pilchard season and the opening of the herring season. Many of the standing crew took this opportunity for a few days' vacation.

This plant, which is one of the most modern and best equipped on the coast, is owned and operated by the Banfield Packing Company, a subsidiary of the Nootka Packing and Fishing Company, with Mr. D. Wilson as production manager and has had a very active season. Although equipped with huge storage tanks for the oil contending shipments have been made throughout the season.

The pilchard and herring reduction is becoming an industry of paramount importance to the west coast and to the island as a whole. The pilchard fishery was formerly confined largely to what may be termed a deep-sea fishery. While some fish are still taken in the inside waters when available, a large portion of the catch is made out in the ocean. This change has been brought about by the introduction of new, large modern vessels equipped with powerful diesel engines and capable of operating in comparatively rough water. The fishermen, too, have by experience improved their methods in many ways and have added greatly to the general success of the industry.

PIONEER B.C. SEAMAN DIES

VANCOUVER—Funeral services will be held in Ladner Friday for Isaac Whitworth, pioneer British Columbia seaman who died in hospital here Monday. He was 72.

Born in St. Mary's, Ont., he came to this province in the spring of 1886, a few months before the Canadian Pacific Railway was completed through to Vancouver.

Married in 1887, he moved to Ladner three years later, where he built his own freight boat, the Birdsweel, and engaged in coast-wise shipping.

He is survived by his wife in Ladner, a daughter, Mrs. L. I. Oliver of St. Catherine's, Ont., and a son, Capt. William Whitworth, and two grandchildren in Vancouver.

Working as usual
on our
120th Birthday

One hundred and twenty years ago there were only seven of us working on the staff of the Bank—a cashier, an accountant, a paying teller, a second teller, a discount clerk, a second bookkeeper, and a porter—that was the entire staff. Today we are more than 6000, in more than 500 Branches, all working to render modern, experienced banking service.

Our Bank's career has been inseparably woven into the career of the nation and every part of it. Founded in 1817, the Bank at once became a financial pathfinder for Canada's pioneers. Through all the intervening, eventful, growing years of Canadian life, our Bank has kept strong and efficient—by pursuing a policy of safety for depositors and by keeping our services always abreast of modern conditions.

In times of expansion and depression, in the best and the worst of economic conditions; through peace and wars, panics and political upheavals, Canadians have learned to rely upon the unwavering safety and banking assistance of the Bank of Montreal. Older than the Dominion itself, yet young as the latest sound business enterprise of Canada, we are working as usual on our 120th Birthday.
